

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THIS volume is the result of an attempt to put into convenient form and the smallest possible compass all the grammar that the ordinary student of Italian will need. Short as the book is, it contains some paragraphs which beginners will probably skip: the longer lists of words and endings, and a great part of the chapters on suffixes and irregular verbs will be useful mainly for reference. The vocabularies cover the twenty-one exercises; they are not intended to include words explained in the notes, nor proper names that are exactly the same in Italian and in English.

I have endeavored to make the book represent the Italian language as it is spoken and written at the present day; the exercises are taken chiefly from reading-books lately prepared for Tuscan schools. Still, I have tried to give also as many obsolete forms as students of the Italian classics will require.

It has been my aim throughout to make the rules clear for all classes of pupils, even for those ignorant of other foreign languages, provided they understand the technical words commonly used in grammars. With this object in view, I have ascribed to the Italian vowels the pronunciation of the English ones that are most like them: an accurate description of the Italian sounds would, I fear, prove confusing to beginners who have had no training in phonetics. It will be easy for the instructor to explain not only the vowels, but some of the consonants, and the division of words into syllables, much better than can be done in a book like this.

The authorities I have consulted most are the dictionaries of Fanfani, Rigutini and Fanfani, Fornari (Nuovo Bazzarini), and Tommaseo and Bellini. I have made but little use of other grammars; I am, however, indebted to Toscani for some ideas and a few of my examples. The chapters on syntax, and the treatment of irregular verbs, pronouns, suffixes, and the plural of words in -co and -go are almost entirely the result of original work.

In conclusion, I wish to express my gratitude to Professor Nash, of Harvard, to my friend and teacher, Sig. Filippo Orlando, of Florence, and to the gentlemen who assisted me in correcting the proof-sheets; and I wish above all to thank Professor Sheldon, of Harvard, and Professor Bendelari, of Yale, without whose aid and encouragement I should scarcely have ventured to offer this book to the public.

ITALIAN GRAMMAR.

PRONUNCIATION.

1. The Italian alphabet has the same letters as the English, except that k, w, x, and y do not occur in modern Italian.

2. The Italians distinguish seven vowels: a, close e, open e, i, close o, open o, u; each of which always has the same sound, no matter what may be its position in the word, and never tends, as do the English long vowels, to become a diphthong. Italian vowels are all pronounced very quickly; hence there is but little difference in quantity between accented and unaccented sounds. English-speaking students must carefully avoid drawling the accented and slighting the unaccented syllables; they should try to give to every Italian vowel about the length of i in "bitter."

A is nearly like a in "father": as fava, canna, cassa, palla.

E, close, is nearly like a in "fate": as beve, vere, stelle, messe.

E, open, may be formed by trying to pronounce e in "bell" with the mouth very wide open: as bella, amena, fera, pensa.

I is nearly like ee in "feet": as miri, vini, fissi, spilli.

O, close, is nearly like o in "mope": as dopo, dove, bollo, sotto.

O, open, is nearly like aw in "saw" pronounced with the mouth wide open: as no, odi, poi, donna.

U is nearly like oo in "boot": as una, cura, nulla, ruppi.

a. The letters i and u are sometimes used to represent consonant sounds (see 4); but in formulating rules they are always counted as vowels.

3. As close and open vowels are not distinguished in spelling, some rules are necessary:—

(1) Unaccented e and o are always close: as mare, "sea"; amo, "I love."

(2) E and o are close in all monosyllables* ending in a consonant: as con, "with"; non, "not"; per, "for."

(3) In monosyllables* and oxytones† ending in a vowel, final e is close, final o is open: as che, "what"; me, "me"; re, "king"; credè, "he believed"; perchè, "why"; do, "I give"; Po, "Po"; sarò, "I shall be"; andò, "he went." Exceptions: final e is open in è = "is," re = "re," interjections (as aimè, "alas"; chè, "nonsense"), proper names (as Noè, "Noah"), and foreign words (as caffè, "coffee"); final o is close in lo and o.

(4) Accented e and o are always open in the groups ie and uo: as piède, "foot"; fuoco, "fire." E and o standing for ie and uo are open: as ven = viene, "he comes"; cor = cuore, "heart."

* Not including shortened forms of words that regularly have more than one syllable.

† Words accented on the last syllable.

(5) In words that have always formed a part of the spoken language, accented e is nearly always close when it represents Latin ē or ĕ, open when it represents Latin ē or æ; accented o is nearly always close when it represents Latin ō or ŭ, open when it represents Latin ō or au. In book words accented e and o are usually open.

In all cases not covered by the first three rules, the quality of e and o will be marked in this book, an acute accent (´) denoting the close, a circumflex (^) the open sound: as avére, "to have"; méno, "less"; tiène, "he holds"; liétto, "happy"; poêta, "poet"; óra, "hour"; mólto, "much"; buòno, "good"; pòco, "little"; môto, "motion."

4. B, f, m, p, q, v are pronounced as in English.

C before e or i sounds like ch in "chin"; elsewhere it is always like English k: as cima, "top"; cóme, "how"; dólce, "sweet." G before e or i sounds like g in "gem"; elsewhere it is always like g in "go": as gatto, "cat"; gênte, "people"; spingi, "push."

a. A cc or a gg before e or i has merely the sound of ch in "chin" or g in "gem" prolonged: as facce, "faces"; légge, "law."

D, l, n, t are pronounced further forward in the mouth than in English; the tip of the tongue should touch the back of the upper front teeth: as alto, "high"; dato, "given"; luna, "moon"; nudo, "naked"; tuòno, "thunder."

H is always silent: as ahi, "oh!" ha, "he has."

I, unaccented, before a vowel, sounds like English y: as iéri, "yesterday"; paio, "pair"; più, "more." In the groups cia, cio, ciu, gia, gio, giu, an unaccented i serves only to show that the c or g is soft: as faccia,

"face"; guancia, "cheek"; ciò, "that"; giù, "down"; mangia, "eat"; raggio, "ray."

J is merely another way of writing i.

N before a q or a hard c or g has the sound of English ng: as banca (bang-ka), "bank"; dunque (dung-kwe), "therefore"; lungo (lung-go), "long."

R is always rolled, the point of the tongue vibrating against the teeth: as caro, "dear"; rosso, "red"; per, "for." When r is double or followed by a consonant, the trill is prolonged: as carro, "cart"; burro, "butter"; marrone, "chestnut"; carne, "meat"; pôrta, "door."

S is generally pronounced nearly like English s in "see," but with a somewhat sharper sound: as sô, "I know"; spillo, "pin."

Initial s before a sonant (b, d, g, l, m, n, r, v) has a sound intermediate between s and English z: as sdrucchiolare, "to slip"; slitta, "sleigh."

A single s between vowels has, in most words, the sound of English z: as caso, "case"; causa, "cause"; viso, "face." But in the following cases it is pronounced like s in "see," "mason": —

a. In ásino, casa, Chiusi, côsa, così, desidêrio, naso, parasito, pêso, Pisa, pisêllo, pôsa, ripôso, riso, susina, and their derivatives, and in many uncommon words.

b. After the prefixes de-, di-,* pre-, pro-, re-, ri-, *tra-: as desistere, disêgno, presumere, proseguire, reservare, risolvere, trasudare.

c. In the adjective ending -ôso and the adjective and substantive ending -ése: as noiôso, "troublesome"; inglêse, "English"; mêse, "month." But in cortêse, francêse, lucchèse, marchêse, paêse, palêse, the s is like English z.

* Not to be confounded with dis-, tras-: disonôre, trasandare.

d. In the preterites and past participles of chiudere, nascondere, porre, radere, ridere, rimanere, rispondere, rodere, and all verbs in -endere; and in their compounds and derivatives: as chièsi, socchiuso, nascòse, rispòsero, rasòio, rimase, corrispòsi, ròsero, accèsi, rèso, scèsa. Exceptions to this rule are deridere, verbs in -cludere, and derivatives of rodere.

U, unaccented, before a vowel, sounds like English w: as buòno, "good"; guardare, "to look"; può, "he can."

Z and zz are generally pronounced like a long and vigorous ts: as alzare, "to lift"; azione, "action"; prezzo, "price"; zìo, "uncle."

In the following cases, however, z and zz sound like a prolonged dz:—

a. In azzurro, dozzina, mèzzo, pranzo, ribrezzo, romanzo, zèlo, and many less common words.

b. In verbs in -izzare (as utilizzare, "to utilize"); except attizzare, dirizzare, guizzare, rizzare, stizzare, and their compounds, and a few uncommon words.

5. The following combinations are to be noted:—

Ch (used only before e and i) is always like English k: as fichi (plural of fico, "fig"). Sch is like sk: as schérzo, "sport."

Gh (used only before e and i) is always like English g in "go": as ghi (plural of ago, "needle").

Gl (written gl if the following vowel be i) is nearly like English lli in "million": as figlio, "son"; figli, "sons." But in Ánglia, geroglífico, glicerina, negligere and its derivatives, and a few uncommon words borrowed from the Greek or Latin, gl is like English gl.

Gn is nearly like ni in "onion": as ogni, "every."

Qu is always like kw: as questo, "this."

5o before e and i is nearly like sh in "ship": as uscire, "to go out." Before all other letters it is pronounced sk: as scuôla, "school"; schérno, "contempt."

6. Every letter in Italian is distinctly and separately sounded; the only exceptions are h, silent i (see 4), and the combinations mentioned in 5. Ex.: arte, "art"; firma, "signature"; furto, "theft"; giórno, "day"; vérso, "toward"; andái, "I went"; áura, "breeze"; bugíe, "lies"; Eurôpa, "Europe"; mièi, "my"; paúra, "fear"; sentíi, "I felt"; suôi, "his."

Where a double consonant is written, both letters must be sounded, the first at the end of the preceding, the second at the beginning of the following syllable: as anno, "year"; babbo, "father"; fatto, "done"; mésso, "put"; quéllo, "that." For rr, zz, and soft cc and gg, see 4.

L, m, n, and r, when preceded by an accented vowel and followed by another consonant, are prolonged: as alto (all-to), "high"; sempre (sémm-pre), "always"; tanto (tann-to), "so much"; parte (parr-te), "part."

7. The accent is nearly always the same as in Latin. In this book it will always be noted. Of the signs written here, students are to use only the grave (`), which is placed on the last syllable of oxytones and on some monosyllables; Italian writers do not agree as to the use of the other marks.

8. Italian words are divided in such a way that, if possible, every syllable shall begin with a consonant: as ta-vo-lt-no, "table"; frat-tán-to, "meanwhile"; al-l' uô-mo, "to the man"; nar-rá-re, "to relate"; mêz-zo, "half"; các-cia, "hunt"; ôg-gi, "to-day."

In the groups s + consonant, consonant + r, those mentioned in §, and cl, fl, gl, pl, both consonants belong to the following syllable. I = y and u = w go with the following vowel; di, du, ei, eu, oi are not separated. Ex.: al-l' du-ra, a-vrò, bi-sò-gno, ca-stt-ghi, del-l' ac-qua, in-chiò-stro, mièi, mi-gliò-re, ri-flèt-te-re, te-d-tro, tudi.

ARTICLES.

9. The article is not declined, but it agrees with its substantive in gender and number.

THE DEFINITE ARTICLE

10. Masculine :—

a. Sing. il, pl. i, before a word beginning with any consonant except s impure* and z.

b. Sing. lo, pl. gli, before a vowel or s impure or z.†

Before a vowel lo becomes l'; gli becomes gl' before i.

Ex.: Il pàdre, the father; i pàdri, the fathers.

Lo stèsso pàdre, the same father.

Lo scidme, the swarm; gli scidmi, the swarms.

Lo zio, the uncle; gli zii, the uncles.

L' uòmo, the man; gl' insètti, the insects.

11. Feminine :—

Sing. la, pl. le.

Before a vowel la becomes l'; le becomes l' before e.

Ex.: La mādre, the mother; le mādri, the mothers.

L' ora, the hour; le ore, the hours; l' èrbe, the herbs.

* That is, s followed by another consonant.

† Li is sometimes used for gli. Some writers use il, i before z and before sce- or sci-.

12. When the definite article is preceded by one of the prepositions di, da, a, in, con, su, per, the article and preposition are generally contracted into one word, as shown in the following table (con, per are often uncontracted) :—

	IL	I	LO	GLI	LA	LE	L'
Di , of	del	dèi or dè'	dèllo	dègli	dèlla	dèlle	dell'
Per , for	pel	pèi or pe'	per lo	per gli	per la	per le	per l'

Ex. : Del pàdre, of the father ; dài pàdri, by the fathers.

Allo spècchio, to the mirror ; nègli spècchi, in the mirrors.

Còlla mādre, with the mother ; còlle mādri, with the mothers.

Sull' uòmo, on the man ; per gli uòmini, for the men.

a. The word "some" is frequently rendered in Italian by dì with the definite article. This is called the partitive genitive.

Ex. : Dàtemi del vīno, give me some wine.

Dèlle belle cose, some fine things.

13. In the following cases the definite article is used in Italian, though not in English :—

a. Before the possessive pronouns : as il nòstro giardino, "our garden" ; i sudi fratlèlli, "his brothers." When, however, the possessive qualifies an otherwise unmodified noun in the singular expressing relationship, the article is generally omitted : as mia mādre, "my mother." For a fuller statement see 45, a.

b. Before an abstract noun or one denoting a whole class.

Ex.: L' uomo propone, man proposes.

I fiori nascono dal seme, flowers spring from the seed.

Gli uccelli hanno le ali, birds have wings.

La morte è il peggiore dei mali, death is the worst of evils.

c. In general before a noun used with any adjective that does not express quantity.

Ex.: L' anno scorso, last year; gli uomini buoni, good men.

Il povero Luigi non viene, poor Lewis doesn't come.

d. Before a title followed by a proper name: as la regina Vittoria, "Queen Victoria"; il signor Bruni, "Mr. Brown."

e. Before family names; often before given names of women; occasionally before given names of well-known men.

Ex.: Il Bidnchi è morto, White is dead; la Patti canta, Patti sings.

Conosco l' Olivia, I know Olivia; Dante o il Dante, Dante.

f. Before names of countries and continents: as la Svizzera, "Switzerland"; all' Italia, "to Italy"; per l' Europa, "for Europe." But the article is omitted after in in phrases that denote going to or dwelling in a country, and often after di when di with the name of a country is equivalent to an adjective of nationality: as vado in Germania, "I go to Germany"; rimango in Francia, "I remain in France"; la regina d' Inghilterra, "the queen of England"; il vino di Spagna, "the wine of Spain."

In all the above cases (beginning with 13, a) the article, unless it would be employed in English, is omitted when the noun is used as a vocative or is modified by a numeral or a pronominal adjective.

Ex.: a. Questa sua opera, this work of his.

b. Vi sono sette virtù, there are seven virtues.

c. Povero padre, poor father!

d. Signora Monti, come sta, Mrs. Monti, how do you do?

e. Quel Neri è malato, that Black is ill.

f. Italia, ti rivedo, Italy, I see thee again.

- g. Vitni, amico mio, come, my friend.*
h. Ha parecchi vizi, he has several bad habits.
i. Due bellissimi cani, two very fine dogs.

THE INDEFINITE ARTICLE.

14. Masculine :—

- a. Un* before a vowel or any consonant except s impure and z.
b. Uno before s impure or z. *

Ex. : Un padre, a father ; un uomo, a man.
Un anello, a ring ; uno specchio, a mirror.
Uno sciame, a swarm ; uno zio, an uncle.

15. Feminine :—

Una, which becomes un' before a vowel.

Ex. : Una madre, a mother ; un' ora, an hour.

16. In the following cases the indefinite article, though expressed in English, is omitted in Italian :—

a. Before a predicate noun expressing occupation, rank, or nationality, and not accompanied by an adjective.

Ex. : Egli è poeta, he is a poet ; sono marchese, I am a marquis.
Siete italiano, you are an Italian.

b. Generally before an antecedent (of a relative clause) used in apposition to a preceding noun modified by a definite article or a demonstrative pronoun.

Ex. : L' Arno, fiume che traversa Firenze, the Arno, a river which traverses Florence.

c. After da meaning "as," "like," or "for." See 79, g.

Ex. : Da uomo, like a man.

* Some writers use un before s and before sce- or sci-.

NOUNS.

17. Italian nouns are not declined. Possession is denoted by the preposition di: as lo sp cchio di mio padre, "my father's looking-glass."

GENDER.

18. There are no neuter nouns in Italian.*

Nouns denoting males and females keep their natural gender, whatever their termination may be : except guida, "guide" ; guardia, "guard" ; persóna, "person" ; sentinella, "sentinel" ; spia, "spy" ; which are feminine.

Ex. : Il fratello, the brother ; mia sorella, my sister.

Il poeta, the poet ; la poetessa, the poetess.

Una spia, a spy ; la nostra guida, our guide.

19. Of nouns denoting objects without sex some are masculine, some feminine. Their gender can often be determined by the final letter. All Italian nouns end in a, e, i, o, or u : †—

a. Those ending in a are feminine ; except coléra, "cholera," qualcosa, "something," Greek neuters in -ma, ‡ many geographical names, and a few other words, mostly foreign.

Ex. : Un' ora, an hour ; un telegramma, a telegram.

Il Canadà, Canada ; il sofà, the sofa.

b. Of those ending in e and i some are masculine, some feminine. All ending in -zione, -gione, or -udine are feminine.

Ex. : Il fiume, the river ; la pace, peace.

Un dì, a day ; una metropoli, a metropolis.

La ragione, the reason ; la servitùdine, service.

c. Those ending in o are masculine ; except mano, "hand."

Ex. : Il ginocchio, the knee ; la mano, the hand.

* Latin neuters become masculine in Italian ; masculines and feminines retain their Latin gender. This rule has very few exceptions.

† A few foreign nouns used in Italian end in a consonant : as lapis, "pencil" (i lapis, "the pencils"). Nouns in -o or -e often drop that vowel if the preceding consonant is l, n, or r : as cané = can, "dog."

‡ Mostly scientific terms.

d. Those ending in u are feminine ; except sopra più, "surplus," and a few foreign words.

Ex. : La virtù, virtue ; il bambù, bamboo.

20. Any other part of speech (except an adjective*) used as a noun must be masculine.

Ex. : Il viaggiare, travelling.

21. Masculine names of trees in o or e have a feminine form in a or e respectively, denoting their fruit ; but il dattero, "date," il fico, "fig," il limone, "lemon," il pomo, "apple," are always the same, whether denoting the tree or the fruit.

Ex. : Un susino, a plum-tree ; una susina, a plum.
Il nocce, the walnut-tree ; la nocce, the walnut.
Questi fichi, these fig-trees, these figs.

NUMBER.

22. Feminines in unaccented a form their plural by changing a into e.

Ex. : La strada, the street ; le strade, the streets.
Una bugia, a lie ; le bugie, lies.

a. Feminines in -ca and -ga form their plural in -che and -ghe respectively (the h being inserted merely to indicate that the c and g keep their hard sound).

Ex. : Un' oca, a goose ; molte oche, many geese.
La bottega, the shop ; parecchie botteghe, several shops.

* Adjectives of course have the gender of the nouns they represent.

b. Nouns in unaccented -cia and -gia form their plural in -ce and -ge respectively.*

Ex.: La guancia, the cheek; le guance, the cheeks.
Una ciliegia, a cherry; tante ciliege, so many cherries.

23. Masculines in unaccented a and all nouns in unaccented o and e (not ie) form their plural in i.†

Ex.: Un poeta, a poet; due poeti, two poets.
Lo zio, the uncle; gli zii, the uncles.
La mano, the hand; le mie mani, my hands.
Un mese, a month; tre mesi, three months.
La cornice, the frame; quattro cornici, four frames.

a. Masculines in -ca and -ga form their plural in -chi and -ghi respectively.

Ex.: Il monarca, the monarch; i monarchi, the monarchs.
Il collega, the colleague; i colleghi, the colleagues.

b. Nouns in unaccented -io form their plural by changing -io to -i (often written i, j, or ii).

Ex.: Lo specchio, the mirror; gli specchi, the mirrors.
Il ciliegio, the cherry-tree; i ciliegi, the cherry-trees.

c. Nouns in -go form their plural in -ghi. Nouns in -co form their plural in -chi if the penult is accented, otherwise in -ci.

Ex.: Il castigo, the punishment; i castighi, the punishments.
Un catalogo, a catalogue; due cataloghi, two catalogues.
Il fico, the fig; cinque fichi, five figs.
Antico, ancient; gli antichi, the ancients.
Un medico, a doctor; sei medici, six doctors.

This rule has a number of exceptions. In the following lists, words whose irregular plural is rare are omitted.

* Provincia has province. In general borrowed words and words whose plural is necessarily very rare keep the i: audacia, audacie.

† In old Italian and in poetry words in -ello and -ale often form their plural in -egli or -ei, -agli or -ai: capello, capèi.

(1) Compound nouns in -logo denoting persons engaged in the sciences, and all compound nouns in -fago form their plural in -gi.*

Ex.: Il fisiologo, the physiologist; i fisiologi, physiologists.
Antropófago, cannibal; antropófagi, cannibals.

(2) The following words form their plural in -ci, although the penult is accented:—

amíco gréco inimíco nemíco pórco †

Gréco has a regular plural in the expression vini grèchi.

(3) The following words form their plural in -chi, although the penult is unaccented:—

ábbaco	fármaco	lástrico	rammárico	stráscico
acròstico	índaco	mánico	rísico	tòssico
cárico †	intónaco	párroco	sciático	tráffico
diméntico †	intrínseco	pízzico	stômaco	válico §

Acròstico and fármaco have also regular plurals.

d. Some masculines in o have an irregular plural in a; this plural is feminine. They are: centináio, "hundred"; migliáio, "thousand"; miiglió, "mile"; páio, "pair"; uovo, "egg."

Many masculines in o have this irregular feminine plural in a besides the regular masculine plural in i. The most common are: bráccio, "arm"; dito, "finger"; frútto, "fruit"; ginocchio, "knee"; grído, "shout"; lábbro, "lip"; léño, "wood"; mémbro, "member"; múro, "wall"; orécchio, "ear"; osso, "bone."

* Likewise the rare or obsolete words: flemmagógo, idragógo, metallúrgo, sárgo (also reg. plur.), sortilego. "Magicians" = maghi, "magi" = magi.

† Likewise the rare words: apríco, lombríco (also reg.), uvamíco, víco.

‡ Likewise its compounds.

§ Likewise the rare or obsolete words: filáccico, mántaco (also reg.), ostático, sfiláccico, stático (noun), úncico.

Ex.: Un páio, a pair; sette páia, seven pairs.

Il mío bráccio, my arm; le tñe bráccia, thy arms.

Il lábbro, the lip; le lábbra or i lábbri, the lips.

Un ósso, a bone; le óssa or gli óssi, the bones.

Bráccio, ginóccchio, lábbro, and oréccchio nearly always have the irregular plural when denoting the two arms, knees, lips, or ears belonging to the same body.

24. All monosyllables, and all nouns ending in i, ie, u, an accented vowel, or a consonant, are invariable.

Ex.: Il re, the king; i re, the kings.

Il bríndisi, the toast; i bríndisi, the toasts.

Úna spèce, a kind; óttó spèce, eight kinds.

La virtù, virtue; le virtù, the virtues.

Úna città, a city; díeci città, ten cities.

25. The following nouns have irregular plurals: búe, "ox," pl. buidi; díto, "god," pl. *déi; mógli, "wife," pl. mógli; uómo, "man," pl. uómini.

Mignonettes are² born from the seed. The seed, placed under ground, has³ sprouted; from one side it-has³ put-out⁴ shoots, which have-spread-out⁵ through⁶ the ground, and from one side it-has³ sent forth the stalk, the little-branches,⁷ the leaves, and⁹ the flowers. Like mignonettes,⁸ many other²⁶ plants, herbs, and⁹ flowers spring¹⁰ from the seed. Flowers, herbs, grain, and trees are-called¹¹ vegetables. Vegetables have³ roots, trunk, branches, twigs, leaves, flowers, and⁹ fruit. Plants first produce¹² the flower and then the fruit. The trunk or stalk of plants is² that¹⁸ which rests¹⁴ on the roots and¹⁵ comes¹⁶ out from the ground;¹⁷ it-is-covered¹⁸ with¹⁹ branches and with¹⁹ leaves. Of the stalk of plants, — for instance, of the trunk of trees, — we-make-use²⁰ for many purposes; we-make²¹ furniture, doors, windows, the beams that support²² ceilings, ships, carriages, and⁹ cars. The branches of trees are-burned,²³ and give-us²⁴ fire. Vegetables in-order-to²⁵ live have³ need of earth, of water, and⁹ of light.

ADJECTIVES.

26. Adjectives agree with their substantives in gender and number. An adjective modifying two nouns of different genders is generally put in the masculine plural.

Ex.: Il gatto è pulito, the cat is neat; stanze pulite, neat rooms.
Una casa e un giardino bellini, a pretty house and garden.

27. Numeral and pronominal adjectives and the commonest adjectives of size and quantity precede their nouns; adjectives of nationality, shape, and material follow; bello, buono, and adjectives whose use is prompted by emotion, generally precede. Otherwise, of the noun and adjective, the one that contains the chief idea comes last.

Ex.: La seconda volta, the second time; questa volta, this time.
Troppo pane, too much bread; le grandi città, great cities.
Questa palla rotonda, this round ball.
La buona madre, the good mother; pover' uomo, poor man!
La vostra gentilissima lettera, your kind letter.
È un uomo gentilissimo, he is a kind man.

GENDER AND NUMBER

28. Adjectives ending in o are masculine, and form their feminine in a. Adjectives in e are invariable in the singular.

Ex.: Buono stivaletto, good boot; buona scarpa, good shoe.
Ragazzo felice, happy boy; ragazza felice, happy girl.

29. Adjectives form their plural in the same way as nouns (see 22, 23).

Ex.: Six buoni cassettoni, six good bureaus; otto buone seggiole, eight good chairs.
Due uomini felici, two happy men tre donne felici, three happy women.

a. Parécchi, "several," has for its feminine parécchie.

b. Qualche, "some," is used only in the singular, even when the meaning is plural : as qualche volta, "sometimes."

c. When preceding a noun, bèllo, "beautiful," has forms similar to those of the definite article ; and Sánto, "Saint," and gránde, "great," have corresponding forms in the singular.* Buóno, "good," when preceding its noun, has a singular similar to the indefinite article. The masculine of these words (which is the only irregular part) is, therefore, as follows : —

Before any consonant except s impure or z : bel, San, gran, buon ;
pl. bèi, Sánti, grándi, buóni.

Before s impure or z : bèllo, Sánto, gránde, buóno ; pl. bègli, Sánti, grándi, buóni.

Before a vowel : bell', San', grand', buon ; pl. bègli, Sánti, grándi, buóni.

When used after a noun or in the predicate these adjectives have their full forms (bèllo, bèlli, Sánto, Sánti, gránde, grándi, buóno, buóni).

Ex. : Un bel quaddro, a fine picture ; dúe bèi lètti, two fine beds.

Un bello scaffále, a fine bookcase ; quáttro bègli stiudli, four fine boots.

Un bell' andito, a fine hall ; mólti bègli orològi, many fine clocks.

Una bèlla stúfa, a fine stove ; parécchie belle ténde, several fine curtains.

Il palázso è bello, the palace is fine ; le sédie son belle, the chairs are beautiful.

San Piètro, Sánto Stéfano e San' Antònio, St. Peter, St. Stephen, and St. Anthony.

Un gran fuóco, a big fire ; grándi camini, big fire-places.

* Gran is, moreover, often used in the fem. sing. (for gránde), and sometimes in the plur. (for grándi) ; it is regularly used before fem. sing. nouns in -e, and in the expression una gran bèlla (or brútta) cósa.

Il grande scaldino, the big foot-warmer; dieci grandi spilli, ten big pins.

Un grande sciame, a great swarm; il grande stipolo, the large bung.

Un grand' armadio, a big wardrobe; venti grandi alberi, twenty big trees.

Una grande camera, a large bedroom; cinque grandi finestre, five big windows.

Il salotto è molto grande, the parlor is very large.

Un buon lume, a good lamp; buoni fiammiferi, good matches.

Il buono sgabello, the good stool; nove buoni scolari, nine good pupils.

Il buon olio, the good oil; parecchi buoni aghi, several good needles.

Una buona cucina, a good kitchen; le buone candele, the good candles.

Il bambino è buono, the child is good.

30. Any adjective of either gender or either number may be used as a noun.

Ex.: I buoni, the good; la bella, the beautiful woman.

COMPARISON.

31. All Italian adjectives form their comparative by prefixing più "more," and their superlative by prefixing the definite article to the comparative. When the superlative immediately follows the noun, this article is omitted.

Ex.: Bello, beautiful; più bello, more beautiful; il più bello, the most beautiful.

Lungo, long; più lungo, longer; il più lungo, the longest.

La via più corta, the shortest way.

a. The following adjectives have an irregular comparison in addition to the regular one: —

Alto, high; più alto or superiore; il più alto or il superiore.

Basso, low; più basso or inferiore; il più basso or l'inferiore.

Buono, good; più buono or migliore; * il più buono or il migliore.

Cattivo, bad; più cattivo or peggiore; * il più cattivo or il peggiore.

Grande, big; più grande or maggiore; il più grande or il maggiore.

Piccolo, small; più piccolo or minore; il più piccolo or il minore.

"Higher" and "lower" are commonly rendered by più alto and più basso; superiore and inferiore generally mean "superior" and "inferior." Migliore and peggiore are more used than più buono and più cattivo, which have the same sense. "Larger" and "smaller" are generally più grande and più piccolo; maggiore and minore usually signify "older" and "younger."

Ex.: Noi siamo migliori di loro, we are better than they.

Questa sala da pranzo è la più grande, this dining-room is the biggest.

Pietro è il fratello minore, Peter is the youngest brother.

32. The adverb "less" is expressed by méno, "least" by il méno. "As . . . as," "so . . . as" are tanto . . . quanto, tanto . . . come, così . . . come, or simply quanto.

Ex.: Quella stanza è la meno bellina, that room is the least pretty.

Paolo non è tanto buono come Roberto, Paul isn't so good as Robert.

Giovanni è alto quanto Filippo, John is as tall as Philip.

33. "Than" is che.

Ex.: L'albergo è più grande che bello, the hotel is bigger than it is beautiful.

But before a noun, a pronoun, or a numeral "than" is rendered by the preposition di (see 12). If, however, this "than" is preceded by a word meaning "rather," it is translated che.

* The adverbs "better" and "worse" are méglio and péggio.

Ex.: Riccardo è peggiore di Guglielmo, Richard is worse than William.

Voi siete più ricchi di noi, you are richer than we.

Meno di cinque, less than five.

Piuttosto la morte che il disonore, rather death than dishonor.

Before an inflected verb "than" is che non or di quel che.

Ex.: Abbaia più che non morde, he barks more than he bites.

Prometto meno di quel che do, I promise less than I give.

34. "The more . . . the more," "the less . . . the less" are più . . . più, meno . . . meno. "More" and "less" after a number are di più, di meno. In speaking of time, "longer" after a negative is più.

Ex.: Più studio, più imparo, the more I study, the more I learn Trenta giorni di meno, thirty days less.

Non lo vediamo più, we see him no longer.

EXERCISE 5.

Il sole è¹ un globo grandissimo e sèmpre infocato: esso è¹ grande oltre un milione di volte più della terra; e dire² che a' nostri occhi apparisce³ tanto più piccolo! Anche la luna, che splende⁴ durante la notte, è¹ rotonda, ma è¹ molto più piccola della terra, e gira⁵ intorno a questa⁶ continuamente. La luna non ha¹ luce da sè, ma la riceve⁷ dal sole. Ecco⁸ perchè la luna ora la vediamo⁹ e ora non la vediamo⁹ più, ora ne vediamo⁹ mezza, ora uno spicchio, ora un po' più, ora un po' meno, secondo che di essa ci si presenta¹⁰ una parte maggiore o minore illuminata dal sole. Le stelle sono¹ tutti quei¹¹ punti luminosi che vediamo⁹ brillare di¹² notte nel firmamento. Non crediate,¹³ però, che le stelle siano¹ piccole come noi le vediamo⁹: ci paiono¹⁴ così piccine per la smisurata distanza che corre¹⁵ da loro a noi; ma le stelle sono¹ grandissime, e ce n'è di quelle¹⁶ che sono¹ infinitaménte più grándi del sóle. Gli è¹ che il sóle è¹ méno lontano di ésse dálla têrra che nói abitiámo.¹⁷

- ¹ È = is; sóno, stano (subj.) = are; ha = has. ² To think. ³ It seems. ⁴ Shines. ⁵ Turns. ⁶ It. ⁷ La ricève = receives it. ⁸ That is. ⁹ Vedidmo = we see; la vedidmo = we see it; le vedidmo = we see them; ne vedidmo = we see of it. ¹⁰ Ci si presêta = there presents itself to us. ¹¹ Those. ¹² At. ¹³ Non creditte = do not think. ¹⁴ Ci pdiono = they seem to us. ¹⁵ Intervenes. ¹⁶ Ce n' è di quèlle = there are some. ¹⁷ Inhabit.

EXERCISE 6.

The moon is¹ in the middle of² the sky. The moon is¹ round; it-looks³ perfectly round like a melon. And it-looks,³ too, as big as a melon. The moon seems⁴ little because it-is¹ far, far from us who are⁵ on the earth. The moon renders⁶ a great service to men: because when everything is¹ dark, it⁷ illumines⁸ with its beautiful light the earth which we-inhabit.⁹ The stars are¹⁰ larger than the moon, but to-look-at-them¹¹ they-seem¹² smaller, because they-are¹⁰ so-much¹³ further than the moon. The most beautiful,¹⁴ the most intense¹⁴ light comes¹⁵ from the sun.

- ¹ È. ² A. ³ Par or pàre. ⁴ Si véde. ⁵ Sidmo. ⁶ Fa. ⁷ Éssa. ⁸ Rischidra. ⁹ Abitidmo. ¹⁰ Sóno. ¹¹ A vedérle. ¹² Pdiono. ¹³ Tánto. ¹⁴ Both adjectives follow the noun. ¹⁵ Viène.

AUGMENTATIVES AND DIMINUTIVES; NUMERALS.

AUGMENTATIVE AND DIMINUTIVE ENDINGS.

35. Instead of a word expressing size or quality the Italians often use a suffix. This suffix may be added to a noun, an adjective, or an adverb. When added to an adjective, and generally when added to a noun, it takes the gender of the word to which it is affixed: occasionally, however, a suffix with masculine termination is added to a feminine noun, which thereby becomes masculine. A word loses its final vowel before a suffix; but the preceding consonant, if it be c or g, must keep its former quality: as Cárlo + ino = Carlino, vóce + óne = vocióne, pòco + ino = pochino, adágio + ino = adagino.

a. The commonest ending is -issimo (fem. -issima), "very," which in general is added only to adjectives and adverbs. Adverbs in -mente add the -issima before the -mente (see 85). Any adjective may take it, and it is very often used in cases where it would be entirely superfluous in English.

Ex.: Largo, wide; larghissimo, very wide.
Bene, well; bentissimo, very well.
Grande, big; grandissimo, very big.
Fa un tempo bellissimo, it's beautiful weather.
Bellissimamente, very beautifully.

b. The principal suffix denoting bigness is -óne; it is always masculine, but has a rare feminine form, -óna.

Ex.: Libro, book; libróne, big book.
Casa, house; casóne, large house.
Boccia, decanter; boccióna, big decanter.

c. The most important suffixes denoting smallness are -ino, -cino, -icino, -étto, -èllo, -cèllo, -icèllo, -arèllo, -erèllo, -òtto, -uccio, -uzzo, -uolo, with their fem. -ina, etc. These endings, especially -uccio, are often used to express affection; some of them may be used to express pity or contempt. Ótto sometimes means "somewhat large" instead of "small."

Ex.: Sorèlla, sister; sorellina, little sister.
Bèllo, beautiful; bellino, pretty.
Brùtto, ugly; bruttino, rather ugly.
Piázza, square; piazzétta, little square.
Giòrgio, George; Giorgétto, Georgie.

Campana, bell; campanello, little bell.
Aquila, eagle; aquilotto, eaglet.
Casa, house; casotta, rather large house.
Giovanni, John; Giovannuccio, dear little Johnny.
Pazzo, mad; pazzarella, poor mad woman.
Povero, poor; poverini, poor things!

d. The ending -accio denotes worthlessness.

Ex.: Roba, stuff, goods; robdaccia, trash.
Tempo, weather; tempaccio, nasty weather.
Alfredo, Alfred; Alfredaccio, naughty Alfred.

36. Of the endings added to nouns -ino is by far the most common; the only ones that are freely used to form new compounds are -ino, "little," -one, "great," -uccio, "dear," and -accio, "bad." In very many cases endings lose their character of independent suffixes, and become inseparable parts of certain words, whose meanings they often change: as scala, "stairway"; scalino, "stair"; scalétto, "ladder." Some suffixes (as -uolo) are rarely used except in this way. Others (as -cino, -icino, -ello, -ello, -icello, -arello, -erello) cannot be attached to any word at pleasure, their use being determined by precedent or euphony.

37. Sometimes several suffixes are added at once to the same word: as ladro, "thief"; ladrone, "terrible thief"; ladroncello, "terrible little thief."

22, ventidue.	31, trentuno or trent' uno.	100, cento.	400, quattrocento.
23, ventitrè.	32, trentadue.	101, centuno or cent' uno.	1000, mille.
24, ventiquattro.	40, quaranta.	105, centocinque.	2000, due mila.
25, venticinque.		115, centoquindici.

Ūno has a feminine una; when used adjectively uno has the same forms as the indefinite article. The plural of mille is mila. "A million" is un milione or millione, of which the plural is milioni or millioni.

(1) No conjunction is used between the different parts of a number: as dugento quaranta, "two hundred and forty." No indefinite article is used before cento and mille: as cento libri, "a hundred books."

(2) Cento, dugento, etc., when followed by another numeral of more than two syllables may lose the final syllable -to: as seicento cinquanta or seicencinquanta, "six hundred and fifty."

(3) "Eleven hundred," "twelve hundred," etc., must be rendered millecento, milledugento, etc.: as mille ottocento ottantasette, 1887.

(4) "Both," "all three," etc., are tutti (fem. tutte) e due, tutti (fem. tutte) e tre, etc.

a. If the noun modified by ventuno, trentuno, etc., follows the numeral, it should be in the singular; if it precedes, in the plural.

Ex.: Sessantuna lira or lire sessantuna, 61 francs.

b. In dates the definite article is prefixed to the number representing the year, if that number follows a preposition, or does not follow the name of a month.

Ex.: Nel mille ottocento ottantasette, in 1887.

c. "What time is it?" is che ora è? "It is six," etc., is sóno le sèi, etc., óre being understood. "One o'clock" is il tòcco.

Ex.: Sóno le due e mèzzo, it's half-past two.

Sóno le tre e dièci, it's ten minutes past three.

Ci mancano vènti minùti alle quàttro, it's twenty minutes to four.

Sóno le cinque méno un quárto, it's a quarter to five.

39. The ordinal numerals are : —

1st, primo .	12th, duodécimo or	20th, ventésimo .
2d, secóndo .	décimo secóndo .	21st, ventésimo primo or
3d, térzo .	13th, tredicésimo or	ventunésimo .
4th, quárto .	décimo térzo .	22d, ventésimo secóndo
5th, quínto .	14th, quattordicésimo or	or ventiducésimo .
6th, sèsto .	décimo quárto .	30th, trentésimo .
7th, sèttimo .	15th, quindicésimo or	100th, centésimo .
8th, ottávo .	décimo quínto .	101st, centésimo primo .
9th, nòno .	16th, décimo sèsto .	115th, centoquindicésimo .
10th, décimo .	17th, décimo sèttimo .	200th, ducentésimo .
11th, undécimo or	18th, décimo ottávo .	1000th, millésimo .
décimo primo .	19th, décimo nòno .	2000th, duemilésimo .

All of them form their feminines and plurals like other adjectives in o.

Ex.: Le settantésime quínte còse, the 75th things.

a. Ordinal numerals are used after the words "book," "chapter," and the names of rulers; but no article intervenes.

Ex.: Carlo secóndo, Charles the Second; Pio nòno, Pius IX.

Libro térzo, Book the Third; capítolo quárto, chapter four.

b. For the day of the month, except the first, a cardinal number is used.

Ex.: Il dì cinque d' aprile or il cinque aprile, the fifth of April.

Il primo di maggio, the first of May.

c. "A third," "a fourth," "a fifth," etc., are un terzo, un quarto, un quinto, etc. "Half" is la metà; the adjective "half" is mèzzo.

40. "A couple" or "a pair" is un paio. "A dozen" is una dozzina. The expressions una decina, una ventina, una trentina, etc., un centinaio, un migliaio, mean "about ten," "about twenty," etc. (see 23, d). "Once," "twice," etc., are una volta, due volte, etc.

Ex.: Un paio di scarpe, a pair of shoes.

Una cinquantina di persone, some fifty persons.

L'ho visto parecchie volte, I've seen it several times.

Con l'orologio si véde¹ che ore sòno.² Un giorno è³ ventiquattr' ore. Certe ore del giorno è² lume, certe ore è² buio. Un giorno è³ ventiquattr' ore, ma sulla móstra dell' orologio, delle ore ce n' è⁴ segnate dódici, perchè le ore del giorno si cóntano⁵ dall' una álle dódici, così: tòcco, due, tre, quáttro, cinque, sèi, sètte, otto, nôve, dièci, úndici e dódici. Sunday³ is¹ a⁴ holiday; the other days we-work,⁵ and therefore they-are-called² working-days. The year is-divided⁶ into twelve months. The months are-called²: January, February, March, April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November, December. The month is¹ thirty or thirty-one days. When the month begins,⁷ it-is-called⁸ the first of the month; the second day is-called⁸ the second of the month, the third, the third, and so-on⁹ until the thirtieth or thirty-first. February is¹ the shortest month, because it-has¹¹ twenty-eight days only.¹² But every four years February has¹¹ twenty-nine days; and that¹⁶ year is-called¹³ leap-year. The year begins⁷ from January; January is,¹ then,¹⁴ the first month of the year. The year ends¹⁵ with December; so¹⁴ December is¹ the last month of the year.

DEMONSTRATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, RELATIVE, AND POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

41. For the indefinite pronouns, see 86-91.

42. (1) The demonstrative pronouns used adjectively are questo, "this," and quello or cotesto, "that." Cotesto (spelled also codesto) is used of objects near the person addressed. Questo and cotesto are inflected like other adjectives; but they generally drop o before a vowel. Quello is inflected like bello (see 29, c).

Ex.: Quest' uomo, this man; queste ragazze, these girls.
Quel bambino, that infant; quei fanciulli, those children.
Quell' amico, that friend; quegli sposi, that couple.
Quello zio, that uncle; quelle signore, those ladies.

Questo and quello are also used substantively for "this," "that," "this one," "that one": as fate questo, non fate quello, "do this, don't do that."

(2) "This man" is translated by questi, "that man" by quegli, queli, or cotesti (rare); these words are invariable, refer only to persons, and are used only in the nominative singular. Costui and colui mean respectively the same as questi and quegli, but are not defective, having a feminine singular costei, collei, and a plural (both genders alike) costoro, coloro. Costui is often used in a depreciative sense.

Ex.: Questi è francese e quegli è tedesco, this man is French and that one is German.
Chi è costui, who is this fellow?
Parlo di colui, I speak of that man.

(3) Cid, "this," "that," is invariable, and represents a whole idea, not a single word: as cid è véro, "that's so."

a Quello and questo, quelli and questi mean also "the former," "the latter."

b. "He who" is colui che, or simply chi. "The one who, whom, which," "that which," "what" is quello che or quel che.

Ex.: Chi lavora or colui che lavora, he who works.

Quel che dico io, the one I mean.

A quel che sento, from what I hear.

43. The interrogative "who," "whom," is chi. "What?" used substantively is che, che cosa, or cosa.* "What?" used adjectively is che or quale. "Which?" is quale. Quale has a plural quali; chi and che are invariable. "How much?" is quanto (-a), "how many?" is quanti (-e).

Ex.: Chi vedo, whom do I see?

Di chi parlate, of whom do you speak?

Che cosa dice, what does he say?

Che or quelli libri avete comprato, what books did you buy?

Quale di questi volumi è il primo, which of these volumes is the first?

a. The interrogative "whose" is di chi.

Ex.: Di chi è questo biglietto, whose card is this?

b. In exclamations "what a," "what," are rendered by che or quale without any article.

Ex.: Che bel paese, what a beautiful country!

44. The principal relative pronouns are che, cui, il quale: they are all applied to both persons and things, and mean "who," "whom," "which," or "that." Il quale is inflected

* Cosa (as cosa dice?) is generally avoided in written Italian.

(la quále, i qualli, le qualli). Che and cui are invariable: in general che is used only as subject and direct object, cui only after prepositions or as indirect object.

- Ex.: La lingua che si parla, the language which we speak.
L'uomo del quále si tratta, the man of whom we are speaking.
Le persone a cui or alle qualli parlo, the persons to whom I speak.
Lo scritto di cui parlo, the work I am speaking of.
Egli è colui, cui fu detto, he is the man to whom it was given.

(1) As subject or direct object che is preferred to il quále, unless clearness requires the latter.

(2) The relative "whose" is il cui or del quále.

- Ex.: Una signora, il cui nome è Lucia, a lady whose name is Lucy.
Un uomo, le cui figlie conosco, a man whose daughters I know.
L'autore, del cui libro si parla, the author whose book we are speaking of.
Le chiese delle qualli si vedono le cupole, the churches whose domes we see.

(3) The relative cannot be omitted in Italian.

- Ex.: Le case che ho comprate, the houses I have bought.

a. "Such . . . as" is tale . . . quále; in poetry tale has a plural tali instead of talli. "As much as" is tanto quánto; "as many as" is tanti quánti.

- Ex.: Quále è il padre tale è il figlio, as is the father, so is the son.

b. "He who" is chi or colui che (see 42, b).

- Ex.: Chi ha la sanità è ricco, he who has health is rich.

c. "Whoever" is chiunque; "whatever" as a substantive is tutto quel che or checcchè, as an adjective quále che, qualunque che, qualunque, per quánto. These words, excepting tutto quel che, all take the subjunctive. Checcchè is now but little used.

Ex. : Chiunque siddte, whoever you may be.

Checchè facciate, fátelo bène, whatever you do, do it well.

Tutto quel che volíte, whatever you wish.

Qudli che siano i vòstri motivi, whatever your motives may be Qualúnque siano i suoi talenti, whatever his talents may be.

In qualunque siddto che io mi tróvi, in whatever condition I may find myself.

Per quante ricchèzze egli abbia, whatever riches he may have.

45. The possessive pronouns are :—

My :	m., il mio ,	f., la mia ,	m. pl., i miei ,	f. pl., le mie .
Thy :	il tuo ,	la tua ,	i tuoi ,	le tue .
His, her, its :	il suo ,	la sua ,	i suoi ,	le sue .
Our :	il nostro ,	la nostra ,	i nostri ,	le nostre .
Your :	il vostro ,	la vostra ,	i vostri ,	le vostre .
Their :	il loro ,	la loro ,	i loro ,	le loro .

Loro is invariable ; the others agree with the object possessed : as il mio naso, "my nose" ; la sua bocca, "his, her mouth" ; i vostri occhi, "your eyes" ; le loro labbra, "their lips."

When the possessive stands alone in the predicate, the article is omitted if the possessive is used adjectively.

Ex. : Questo cappello è mio, this hat is mine.

Questo cappello è il mio, this hat is mine (i.e., the one that belongs to me).

a. The article (unless it might be used in English) is omitted before the possessive : (1) When a numeral, an adjective of quantity, or a demonstrative or interrogative adjective precedes it : as due cani suoi, "two dogs of his" (but i due cani suoi, "the two dogs of his" or "his two dogs") ; molti miei amici, "many friends of mine" (but i molti miei amici, "the many friends of mine" or "my many friends") ; questo tuo difetto, "this fault of thine." (2) When the possessive forms part of a title : as Vòstra Maestà,

"Your Majesty"; Sua Altezza, "His Highness." (3) When the possessive modifies a noun used in the vocative (in this case the possessive generally follows its noun): as amico mio, "my friend!"

(4) The article is generally omitted also when the possessive precedes a noun in the singular expressing relationship: as nostra madre, "our mother." But if the noun has a diminutive ending, or an adjective precedes the noun, the article is not omitted: as il tuo fratellino, "thy little brother"; la vostra gentilissima sorella, "your kind sister." (5) The article is omitted also in certain phrases, such as: da parte mia, "for me"; per amor mio, "for my sake"; in casa nostra, "in our house"; a modo suo, "in his own way"; è colpa vostra, "it's your fault."

b. The possessive, when not necessary for clearness, is usually replaced by a definite article.

Ex.: Come sta la mamma, how is your mother?

Ha perduto il giudizio, he has lost his senses.

Battono i piedi, they stamp their feet.

c. When the name of the thing possessed is direct object of a verb, the Italians often use instead of the possessive a conjunctive personal pronoun (see 47) and a definite article. If the thing possessed be a part of the body or clothing, this construction is frequent, even when the name of the thing is not object of a verb.

Ex.: Si strappa i capelli, he tears his hair (lit., he tears to himself the hairs).

Mi taglio il dito, I cut my finger (I cut to myself the finger).

Il cane gli agguantò la gamba, the dog seized his leg (seized to him the leg).

Mi duole il capo, my head aches (to me aches the head).

d. When the possessor is not the subject of the sentence, "his," "her" are, for the sake of clearness, often rendered di lui, di lei: as egli non conosce il di lei cuore, "he does not know her heart."

e. "A . . . of mine, of thine," etc., is un mio, un tuo, etc.: as una nostra cugina, "a cousin of ours."

EXERCISE 9.

EXERCISE 10.

Charles V made¹ of Siena a fief for his son Philip II, who ceded-it² to Cosimo I, and the latter built-there³ the fort which the Spaniards had-tried-to⁴ construct. The city remained⁵ under the rule of the good dukes of Lorraine, until Napoleon made-it⁶ capital of the department of the Ombrone. After the fall of the emperor, it-returned⁷ under the dominion of the dukes. In⁸ 1860 it-was⁹ the first Tuscan city that voted¹⁰ the union of Italy under Victor Emmanuel II, the only honest king of whom history speaks.¹¹

- ¹ Féce. ² La cedette. ³ Vi fabbricò. ⁴ Avevano voluto. ⁵ Restò. ⁶ La féce. ⁷ Ritornò. ⁸ See 38, b. ⁹ Fu. ¹⁰ Votòsse. ¹¹ Parli, which should precede its subject.

PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

46. Personal pronouns are divided into two classes, conjunctive and disjunctive: the conjunctive forms are those used as direct object of a verb, and as indirect object without a preposition; the disjunctive forms are those used as subject of a verb, and as object of a preposition.

Ex.: ÉGLI ve lo dà per ME.
He to you it gives for me.

CONJUNCTIVE FORMS.

47. Conjunctive pronouns are always unaccented, and cannot be separated from the verb, which they sometimes follow but oftener precede, as will be explained in 48.

They are used only as direct object of a verb or as indirect object without a preposition. The forms are:—

Mi, me, to me.

Ti, thee, to thee.

Ci, us, to us.*

Vi, you, to you.

Si (reflexive), himself, to himself; herself, to herself; itself, to itself.

Si (reflexive), themselves, to themselves.

Lo, him; * gli, to him.†

La, her; le, to her.

Li, them (masc.); loro, to them.†

Le, them (fem.); loro, to them.

"It" must be rendered by a masculine or feminine form, according to the gender of the noun it represents. "It" representing not a word, but a whole clause, is lo.‡

Ex.: Mi conòsce, he knows me; ti do i libri, I give thee the books.

Ci vedète, you see us; vi dico tutto, I tell you everything.

Si veste, he dresses himself; si divertono, they amuse themselves.

* In old Italian and in poetry ne is often used for ci, and il for lo.

† In conversation li is often used for gli, and gli or li for loro.

‡ In certain idiomatic phrases la represents an indefinite object: as pagarla cara, "to pay dearly for it."

Ecco l'oro: ve lo do, here's the gold: I give it to you.

Ecco la palla: la vèdo, here's the ball: I see it.

Còme potèva sapèrè se lo ventiva o no? — Lo ha indovinàto. —

"How could he tell whether I was coming or not?" "He guessed it."

(1) It will be seen that the third person (not reflexive) has different forms for the direct and the indirect object.

Ex.: Lo trovai, I found him; gli fèci un regàlo, I made him a present; la làscia, he leaves her; le scrìve, he writes to her.

Li cercàte, you seek them (masc.); le salutàte, you greet them (fem.); mandiàmo loro mille salùti, we send them (masc. or fem.) a thousand greetings.

(2) The reflexive pronouns of the first and second persons are mi, ci; ti, vi. All plural reflexive pronouns are used also as reciprocal pronouns.

Ex.: Mi difèndo, I defend myself; vi lavàte, you wash yourselves.

Si odiano, they hate each other; ci amàmo, we love one another.

(3) Another conjunctive pronoun is ne,* "of it," "of them"; it corresponds also to "any," "some" when these words mean "any, some of it," "any, some of them." It is often used pleonastically in Italian.

Ex.: Ne pàrta, he speaks of it; ne ho, I have some.

Non ne abbiamo, we haven't any; ne vòlte, do you want any?

Tu ne approfitti di questa libertà, you make good use of this liberty.

a. Vi, "you," and ci and ne, "us," are not distinguished by form nor position from the adverbs vi, ci, meaning "there," "here," "to it," "to them,"† and the adverb ne, "thence" (see 84):* as ci vado, "I go there"; vi è stàto, "he has been there."

* Cf. French en.

† Cf. French y.

48. The conjunctive pronouns, except loro, immediately precede the verb: as mi vidéte, "you see me"; non lo capísco, "I don't understand him."

But when the verb is an infinitive,* a positive imperative,† a present participle, or a past participle used without an auxiliary, the pronoun follows the verb, and is written as one word with it: as per vedérlo, "to see him"; dì avérlo vedúto, "to have seen him"; vedételi, "see them"; vedéndoci, "seeing us"; avéndoci vedúto, "having seen us"; vedútoti, "having seen thee." The addition of the pronoun does not change the place of the accent.

Loro always follows the verb, but is never united to it: as égli dà loro del víno, "he gives them some wine"; parláte loro, "speak to them." ‡

a. When an infinitive depends immediately (without an intervening preposition) on another verb, a conjunctive pronoun belonging to the infinitive may go with either verb: as póssio vedérti or ti póssio vedére, "I can see thee." If both verbs have objects, the main verb regularly takes all conjunctive pronouns: as ve lo sènto dire, "I hear you say it."

If, however, the main verb is impersonal, it cannot take the object of the infinitive: as bisógna fárlu, "it is necessary to do it."

If the main verb is fáre, and the dependent infinitive has a direct object, the object of fáre, if it has one, must be indirect:

* Not the infinitive used — with a negative — as imperative (see 72): as non lo fáre, "do not do it" (second pers. sing.).

† Not the negative imperative, nor the subjunctive used imperatively (see 77, a): as non li guardáte, "do not look at them"; si régoli, "let him moderate himself" (third pers. sing. pres. subj.).

‡ Students should follow strictly all of these rules; but they will find that the first is, in certain cases, not always observed by good Italian writers.

as le fa avère la lettera, "he lets her have the letter"; fàteli vedère a quel signòre, "let that gentleman see them"; dovrèi fàrglielo accettàre, "I ought to make him accept it." This construction is generally used also with lasciàre, "to let," and often with sentìre and udìre, "to hear," and vedère, "to see."

b. When a conjunctive pronoun is joined to an infinitive, that infinitive drops its final e; if it ends in -rre, it drops -re: as fàrlo (fàre), "to do it"; condúrvi (condúrre), "to conduct you."

c. The final vowel of mi, ti, si is often, and that of lo, la is nearly always elided before a verb beginning with a vowel: as t' amo, "I love thee"; l' ho visto, "I've seen him."

d. All conjunctive pronouns except gli and glie (see 50) double their initial consonant when added to any form of a verb that ends in an accented vowel: as dàmmi (imper. da' from dàre), "give me"; dillo (imper. di' from dìre), "say it"; parleròlle (antique, for le parlerò), "I shall speak to her."

e. Pronouns are joined to the interjection ecco, "see here," just as they are joined to the imperative of a verb: as eccomi, "here I am"; eccotelo pronto, "here it is ready for thee."

49. When two conjunctive pronouns come together, the indirect object precedes the direct: as mi vi presènta, "he introduces you to me"; non vuol presentàrvimi, "he will not introduce me to you"; gli si presentò un uòmo, "a man presented himself to him."

Lóro, however, always comes last: as presentátela lóro, "introduce her to them."

Ne follows all forms except lóro: as me ne dà, "he gives me some"; dátene lóro, "give them some."

50. Mi, ti, ci, vi, si change their i to e before lo, la, li, le, ne (pronoun or adverb); and if the two words follow the verb, they are joined together: as me lo díce, "he tells me it"; ve ne domando, "I ask you for some"; mandatcelo, "send it to us."* Gli and le ("to her") become gli before lo, la, li, le, ne, and unite with them: as glielli mando, "I send them to him, to her"; vooglio darglielo, "I wish to give it to him, to her."

DISJUNCTIVE FORMS.

51. These forms are so called because they do not necessarily stand next to the verb.

Disjunctive pronouns have two cases, nominative and objective. The objective case is used only after prepositions (for exceptions, see 51, a, b).

The disjunctive forms are these:—

Io , I; me , me.	Tu , thou; te , thee.
Noi , we; noi , us.	Voi , you; vói , you.
{ Égli , lui , esso , he; lui , esso , him.
{ Élla , lei , essa , she; lei , essa , her.
{ Éssi , loro (égli no), they (masc.); loro , essi , them (masc.).
{ Esse , loro (éll eno), they (fem.); loro , esse , them (fem.).

"It" must be rendered by a masculine or feminine form, according to the gender of the noun it represents. "It" as subject of an impersonal verb is regularly not expressed (see, however, 51, h).

Ex.: La casa è grandissima, e intorno ad essa c'è un giardino, the house is very large, and around it there is a garden.

Non è véro, it isn't true; pidue, it rains.

(1) The various pronouns of the third person are used as follows. In speaking of things the different forms of esso are generally employed. In speaking of persons egli

* In poetry me lo, me ne, etc., often become mel, men, etc.: as tel dico, "I tell thee so"; sen torna, "he returns thence." Non lo often = nol.

(or esso), ella (or essa), pl. essi, esse are used for the nominative in written Italian, but in the spoken language they are replaced by lui, lei, loro; for the objective lui, lei, loro are used both in conversation and in writing. Églio and élle are antique forms.

Ex.: Queste cose sono vere anch' esse, these things are true, too.

Élla parla con loro, she speaks with them.

Lèi è giovane ma lui è vecchio, she is young, but he is old.

Vennero da noi anch' essi, they came to us, too.

(2) As the Italian verb denotes by its endings the person and number of its subject, the personal pronouns of the nominative case are generally omitted. When expressed (for clearness, emphasis, or euphony), they may precede or follow the verb; in dependent clauses they nearly always follow. The subject of an interrogative verb usually comes after it, as in English.

Ex.: Parliamo di lui, we speak of him; non vado, I don't go.

S' io fossi ricco come è egli, if I were rich as he is.

(3) The disjunctive reflexive pronoun is sè, which is masculine and feminine, singular and plural.

Ex.: Lo fecero da sè, they did it by themselves.

α. Use the objective case: (1) When a pronoun of the third person is not subject of an expressed verb: as beato lui, "happy he!" tanto i genitori che lui sono ricchi, "his parents as well as he are rich." (2) When the pronoun stands in the predicate after the verb essere: as credendo ch' io fossi te, "thinking I was you." But "it is I," etc., are sono io, sai tu, è lui, è lei, siamo noi, sitte voi, sono loro. (3) In the cases mentioned in 51, b.

b. (1) Clearness or emphasis occasionally requires the disjunctive pronoun instead of the conjunctive ; in this case the conjunctive form is often inserted also.

Ex. : Parlo a voi signóre, I speak to you, sir.

Mi piace anche a me, it pleases me too.

(2) The disjunctive form must always be used when the verb has two direct or two indirect objects.

Ex. : Vedo lui e lei, I see him and her.

Lo do a mio padre e a te, I give it to my father and to thee.

c. In speaking of a company, a class, or a people noi altri, voi altri (which are also written as one word) are used for noi, voi.

Ex. : Noi altri italiani, we Italians.

Voi altri pittóri, you painters.

d. "With me," "with thee," "with himself, herself, themselves" are either con me, etc., or meco, teco, seco.

e. "Myself," "thyself," etc., used for emphasis with a pronoun or noun, are rendered by the adjective stesso.

Ex. : Noi stessi la vedemmo, we saw her ourselves.

f. "One another," "each other" is l' un l' altro.

Ex. : Ci amiamo l' un l' altro, we love one another.

g. In Florence ella is often shortened into la, which is used of both persons and things. In poetry egli becomes ei.

Ex. : La non viene, she doesn't come.

Pare che la si possa tener in mano, it looks as if it might be held in the hand.

h. In impersonal phrases like "it is" the subject, "it," is occasionally expressed in Italian ; it is then translated egli, which in the spoken language is shortened into gli.

Ex. : Gli è che, it is because.

52. (1) The usual form of address in Italy is Élla * (or élla), objective Lèi (or lèi); in conversation Élla is replaced by Lèi (or lèi). This word really means "it," and takes the verb in the third person; but an adjective or past participle modifying it agrees in gender with the person it represents. The plural of Élla is Lóro (or lóro), which takes the verb in the third person plural.

Ex.: Lèi or Élla è tedesco, signóre, you are German, sir.

Signorína Nèri, Lèi (or Élla) fu lasciáta sóla, Miss Neri, you were left alone.

Sóno liétto che La stia bène (see 51, g), I'm glad you are well.

E Lóro, dóve vånno, and you, where are you going?

Lóro érano già partíti, you were already gone.

Signoríne, lóro sóno móltto studióse, young ladies, you are very studious.

Like other personal pronouns, Élla and Lóro are very often omitted in the nominative.

Lèi è tróppo gentile or è tróppo gentile, you are too kind.

Cóme stånno, how do you (pl.) do?

The conjunctive forms of Élla are La, Le (or la, le), those of Lóro are Li, Le, Lóro (or li, le, lóro); they occupy the same positions and undergo the same modifications as the corresponding pronouns of the third person (see 48, 49, 50). The reflexive pronoun of Élla and Lóro is si.

Ex.: Le prométto di visitárla, I promise (you) to visit you.

Glíello do, I give it to you.

La prègo d' accomodársi, I beg you to seat yourself.

Vidi Lèi e il bábbó, I saw you and your father (see 51, b, 2).

Dico lóro, I tell you (pl.).

* Standing for Vòstra Signoríla, "your lordship" or "ladyship," or some other title of the feminine gender.

Le cercava, I was looking for you (fem. pl.).

Si divertono, signorini, are you enjoying yourselves, young gentlemen?

The possessive of Èlla is Súo (or súo). See 45.

Ex.: La Súa gradíta lettera, your welcome letter.

(2) Vói is the form of address oftenest found in books; it is used sometimes in conversation also, but only toward inferiors or toward equals with whom one is on familiar terms.* It is employed for both plural and singular (like English "you"), although its verb is always plural; an adjective or participle modifying it agrees in gender and number with the person or persons it represents.

Ex.: Vói qui, Pittro, You here, Peter?

Vói siète alti tútti e due, you are tall, both of you.

(3) In speaking to an intimate friend, a near relative, a child, or an animal the only form of address is tu. Tu is used also, like English "thou," in poetry and poetic prose. The plural of tu is vói.

Ex.: Ti chiamo Enrico, I call you Henry.

Dóve sèi tu, where art thou?

Vòglío vedérvì, figliuòli mèi, my children, I wish to see you.

* Though advocated by some of the best writers and speakers of Italian, the use of vói instead of Léi and Lóro has not become general. In Southern Italy, however, vói is the form popularly used.

EXERCISE 12.

Carlino. Sir, we are¹ alone.

Armàndo. So it seems² (looking³ around).

Carlino. I repeat⁴ to you that we are¹ alone (louder).

54. (1) The auxiliary of the passive is essere, "to be."

Ex.: Sóno amato, I am loved.

(2) The future ("shall," "will") and the conditional ("should," "would") are formed in Italian without any auxiliary.

Ex.: Io andrò ed egli verrà, I shall go, and he will come.

Vorrèi vederlo, I should like to see him.

(3) The auxiliary of the perfect, pluperfect, preterite perfect, and future perfect tenses is avére, "to have," if the verb be active and transitive. If the verb be passive, reflexive, or reciprocal, the auxiliary is always essere. If the verb be intransitive, the auxiliary is generally essere, but sometimes avére.*

Ex.: Ho parlato, I have spoken.

Avévano fatto queste cose, they had done these things.

Mi sono fatto male, I have hurt myself.

Le donne si erano sbagliate, the women had made a mistake.

Sarò venuto, I shall have come; è nevicato, it has snowed.

a. A past participle used with the auxiliary essere must agree with its subject in gender and number. But when the verb has a reflexive pronoun as indirect object, and some other word as direct object, the past participle may agree with the subject, or with the direct object, or remain invariable.

Ex.: La ragazza è tornata, the girl has returned.

Le donne si sono disputate, the women have disputed.

La sorella si è fatta male, our sister has hurt herself.

Ci siamo fatti onore, we have done ourselves credit.

Ci siamo data (or dato) parola d'onore, we have pledged our word of honor.

b. A past participle used with avére may or may not agree with its direct object, according to the choice of the writer. It usually does not agree when the object follows; and it nearly always does agree when the object is a personal pronoun preceding the verb.

Ex.: La birra che aveva bevuto (or bevuta), the beer he had drunk.

Ho veduto molte cose, I have seen many things.

Li ho trovati, I have found them.

c. "To be," expressing a state or condition, is often rendered by stare (92, 4), instead of essere. Stare per or essere per (followed by the infinitive) means "to be on the point of."

* The use of avére with intransitive verbs must be learned by practice.

Ex.: Sto bene, I'm well; cóme sta, how are you?
Stáva per uscire, I was just going out.

d. English "am" (or "was") + the present participle, when expressing duration, is rendered either by the simple present (or imperfect) or by the same tense of *stáre + the present participle; when denoting futurity, it is translated by the future (or conditional), sometimes by the present (or imperfect).

Ex.: Cammináva, he was walking; státe lavórando, you are working.
Leggevano or stávano leggèndo, they were reading.
Médito or sto meditándo, I am meditating.
Dice che verrà (or viène), he says he is coming.
Disse che verrebbe, he said he was coming.

e. A verb with the auxiliary "used to" (or "would" = "used to") is translated either by the simple imperfect, or by the infinitive with solére, "to be accustomed" (92, 14).

Ex.: Vi andáva (or soltáva andáre) ógni sèra, he used to go there every evening.

f. Venire, "to come" (92, 166), and rimanére, "to remain" (92, 16), are sometimes used as auxiliaries in the simple tenses of the passive, instead of essere. Andáre, "to go" (92, 1), is similarly used, but always implying duty or obligation.

Ex.: Il ladro venne arrestáto, the thief was arrested.
Rimási sorpréso, I was surprised.
Il fucile non va toccáto, the gun mustn't be touched.

g. The English auxiliary "do" is not expressed in Italian.

Ex.: Non viène, he does not come.

h. "To have a thing done" is far fare úna còsa (92, 2).

Ex.: Il re lo fece ammazzáre, the king had him killed.

* Andáre (92, 1) and venire (92, 166) are sometimes used instead of stáre.

55. The third person of the passive is very often replaced by the reflexive construction with si: as si raccontò, "it is related"; questo libro si legge, "this book is read"; la spada che mi si diede, "the sword that was given me"; quelle cose si facevano, "those things were done." Many writers always make the verb agree with its subject in number; but in popular speech the verb is nearly always in the singular when its subject follows (as if si were the subject of the verb, and the original subject were the object): as si vedono (or vede) moltissime cose, "many things are seen"; non si può (or possono) leggere questi libri, "these books can't be read."

The construction with si is generally used also to render the English indefinite "they" followed by a verb: as si dice, "they say." In this sense it is employed with neuter as well as with transitive verbs: as si va spesso, "people often go."

See also 63, a.

56. Following are synopses of the compound tenses of transitive, neuter, reflexive, and passive verbs. In the paradigms given henceforth these forms will be omitted.

a. Following is a synopsis of the compound tenses of trovare, "to find," and venire, "to come":—

— Avère trováto , to have found.	Èssere venúto , to have come.
Avèndo trováto , having found.	Essèndo venúto , having come.
Ho trováto , I have found.	Sòno venúto , I have come.
Avèva trováto , I had found.	— Èra venúto , I had come.
— Èbbi trováto , I had found.	Fui venúto , I had come.
Avrò trováto , I shall have found.	— Sarò venúto , I shall have come.
— Aurèi trováto , I should have found.	Sarèi venúto , I should have come.
Abbia trováto , I have found.	Stia venúto , I have come.
Avèssi trováto , I had found.	Fòssi venúto , I had come.

b. Following is a synopsis of the compound tenses of alzarsi ("to raise one's self"), "to get up," and andarsene,* "to go away."

Infinitive PERFECT:	Essersi alzato,	Essersene andato,
Participle PERFECT:	Essendosi alzato,	Essendosiene andato,
Indicative PERFECT:	Mi sono alzato,	Me ne sono andato,
PLUPERFECT:	Mi era alzato,	Me ne era andato,
PRETERITE PERFECT:	Mi fui alzato,	Me ne fui andato,
FUTURE PERFECT:	Mi sarò alzato,	Me ne sarò andato,
Conditional PERFECT:	Mi sarei alzato,	Me ne sarei andato,
Subjunctive PERFECT:	Mi sia alzato,	Me ne sia andato,
PLUPERFECT:	Mi fossi alzato.	Me ne fossi andato.

c. Following is a synopsis of the entire passive of amare, "to love": —

Infinitive PRESENT:	Essere amato, to be loved.
PERFECT:	Essere stato amato, to have been loved.
Participle PRESENT:	Essendo amato, being loved.
PERFECT:	Essendo stato amato, having been loved.
Indicative PRESENT:	Sono amato, I am loved.
PERFECT:	Sono stato amato, I have been loved.

PRETERITE:	Fui amato, I was loved.
PRETERITE PERFECT:	Fui stato amato, I had been loved.
FUTURE:	Sarò amato, I shall be loved.
FUTURE PERFECT:	Sarò stato amato, I shall have been loved.
Conditional:	Sarei amato, I should be loved.
PERFECT:	Sarei stato amato, I should have been loved.
Imperative:	Sii amato, be loved.
Subjunctive PRESENT:	Sia amato, I am loved.
PERFECT:	Sia stato amato, I have been loved.
IMPERFECT:	Fossi amato, I were loved.
PLUPERFECT:	Fossi stato amato, I had been loved.

* Andarsene is composed of the verb andare, "to go," the reflexive si, and the adverb ne, "thence" (see 47, a).

57. "May," "might," "can," "could" are generally rendered by the proper tense of potére; * "must," "ought," "shall" = "must," "should" = "ought," by dovére; * "will" and "would" expressing volition, by volére.*

Ex.: Può essere véro, it may be true.

Non potéva parláre, he couldn't speak.

Dève pagárlo, he must pay him, he shall pay him.

Dovrebbe fárló, he ought to do it, he should do it.

Voglio sapére, I will know.

Non vorrèi anddre, I wouldn't go.

No preposition intervenes between these verbs and the dependent infinitive.

Ex.: Hanno potuto dormire, they have been able to sleep.

Potrèmo partíre, we shall be able to start.

Dovèmmo venire, we had to come.

Dovrete trovarla, you will have to find her.

Vorrà torndre, he will want to return.

Vorrèi sapére, I should like to know.

These verbs are not defective, like the English modal auxiliaries; hence in Italian the tense is expressed by the auxiliary itself, and not by the dependent infinitive. To find the proper form of potére, dovére, or volére, replace "may," etc., by the correct tense of "to be able"; "must," etc., by "to be obliged"; "will," etc., by "to want" or "to like": as "I could have said it" = "I should have (avrèi) been able (potúto) to say it (dírlo)" = avrèi potúto dírló.

Ex.: Avrebbe dovuto tacere, he ought to have kept still.

Avremmo voluto restare, we would have stayed.

* See 92, 21, 8, 19. The auxiliary of these verbs is regularly avére; but some writers use with them the auxiliary that belongs to the dependent infinitive: as hanno potuto venire or sóno potúti venire, "they have been able to come."

a. "Must" is also expressed by the impersonal verb bisognare, "to be necessary," followed by the infinitive or by che, "that," with the subjunctive. "To have to" is avere da.

Ex.: Bisogna farlo, it must be done.

Bisogna che andiamo, we must go.

Ho da scrivere una lettera, I have to write a letter.

b. "To be able" meaning "to know how" is sapere (see 92, 6). "Not to be able to help" doing a thing is non poter a meno di non (with infinitive) or non poter fare a meno di (with infinitive).

Ex.: Non seppe farlo, he couldn't do it.

Sa leggere e scrivere, he can read and write.

Non poté a meno di non ridere, he couldn't help laughing.

EXERCISE 13.

Giorgetto è un bambino vispo, vispo. È sollecito; alle sette è già levato, ed è già andato nel giardino. È maggio, e il giardino è tutto fiorito; rose, gigli, viole mandano¹ un odore soave. Giorgetto si strugge² di cogliere i fiori; ma la mamma non vuole³: la mamma lo ha lasciato andar nel giardino, a patto che non cogliesse⁴ i fiori. A un tratto Giorgetto vede⁵ una rosa più bella di tutte le altre, non resiste⁶ più al desiderio di pigliarla. La mamma non lo saprà,⁷ non lo può⁸ sapere, — dice⁹ fra sé Giorgetto; e stende¹⁰ la mano al cespuglio, ed è per coglierla. Ma che è stato? Ritira¹¹ lèsto la mano, e grida,¹² e piange.¹³ La rosa ha le spine: il suo gambo nascosto tra bellissime foglie è tutto pieno di spine; e le spine gli hanno bucato tutta la mano. La mano è sanguinosa; e Giorgetto piange¹³ e la mamma ora si avvedrà¹⁴ che il suo bambino è disobbediente.

EXERCISE 14.

Silvio Pellico was¹ confined in prison ; and there, in the silence of his² dungeon, he found³ a friend, a companion — a spider. Yes, a spider made⁴ his web in a corner of the prison, and Silvio did⁵ not-destroy-it⁶ ; on-the-contrary,⁷ he used-to-throw⁸ him crumbs⁹ of bread, and little by little he became-so-attached¹⁰ to that spider, and the spider to him, that the creature used-to-come-down¹¹ from his web and go¹² to find Pellico,¹³ and would-go¹² on his¹⁴ hand and take¹⁵ food⁹ from his¹⁴ fingers. One day the jailer removed¹⁶ the unhappy Pellico. The prisoner thought-of¹⁷ his spider, and said¹⁸ : “ Now that I am-going-away,¹⁹ he will-come-back²⁰ perhaps, and will-find²¹ the prison empty ; or if there-is²² somebody else here,²³ he may²⁴ be an enemy of spiders,⁹ and tear down that beautiful web and crush the poor beast.”

REGULAR AND IRREGULAR VERBS.

58. Italian verbs are divided into four conjugations, according as the infinitive ending is -äre, accented -ère, unaccented -ere (or -rre), or -ire. Regular verbs of the second and third conjugations are, however, inflected just alike.

a. The final e of the infinitive may be dropped before any word except one beginning with s impure.*

* Cf. 10, b; 14, b. Italians find it hard to pronounce three consecutive consonants of which the middle one is s.

THE REGULAR VERB.

59. Parlâre, "to speak," will serve as a model for the first conjugation. All compound tenses are omitted (see 55):—

a. Verbs whose infinitives end in -care or -gare insert h after the c or g in all forms where those letters precede e or i: as pâghi (pagâre), "let him pay"; cercherò (cercâre), "I shall search." Verbs in -ciare and -giare drop the i before e or i: as mangi (mangiâre), "thou eatest"; *comincerà (cominciâre), "he will

b. The verbs giocare, rotare, sonare change o of the stem into uo in all forms where that vowel is accented: as suoni, "let him play"; giuocano, "they play." Rinnovare and tonare generally make the same change.

* Most grammars and dictionaries class these two together as the "second conjugation."

Battere, compètere, convèrgere, divèrgere, lùcere, mèscere, miètere, pàscere, prùdere, ripètere, strìdere, tèssere, tònere, and their compounds do not have in the preterite the forms in parentheses.

Verbs in -cere and -gere insert after the c or g an i before the u of the past participle, but not before the o or a of the singular or third person plural of the present indicative or subjunctive: as mèscere; mèscò, mèsci, mèsce, mescidmo, mescète, mèscòno; mèscà, etc., mèscàno; mesciùto.

Though inflected like finire in all other parts, dormire, fuggire,† pentire, sentire, servire, vestire are always, abor-

* Most grammars and dictionaries call this the "third conjugation."

† Fuggire inserts no extra i (see last sentence of 60).

rtire, bollire, and verbs in -vertire are generally, and assorbire, inghiottire, mentire, nutrire, tossire are often, in the present indicative, imperative, and subjunctive, conjugated after the model below. Partire and sortire are, when transitive, inflected like finire, when intransitive, like sentire.*

62. The present participle of all verbs is invariable.

Ex.: Stavamo parlando, we were speaking.

63. In all conjugations a form of the first person singular of the imperfect indicative ending in o instead of a is nearly always used in conversation, and occurs often in the works of modern authors: as leggevo, "I was reading."

a. In popular speech the first person plural of all tenses is generally replaced by the third person singular preceded by si: noi altri si crede, "we believe"; noi si era venuti, "we had come"; ci si decise, "we decided (ourselves)."

b. Final o of the third person plural is frequently omitted: as parlan di lui, "they speak of him." Forms in -anno sometimes drop -no: as dirán tutto, "they will tell everything."

c. The imperfect indicative endings -avamo, -avate, -evamo, -evate, -ivamo, -ivate are often pronounced -ávamo, -ávate, etc.

d. Occasionally, especially in poetry, -at- is omitted from the ending of the past participle of the first conjugation: destato = dèsto.

* Compounds are conjugated like their simple verbs.

THE IRREGULAR VERB.

64. Certain parts of Italian irregular verbs are always regular: the example given below will show which they are. Èssere (see 53, a) is an exception to all rules.

65. Many irregular verbs that belong or once belonged to the third conjugation have the infinitive contracted (fàre for fàcere, dìre for dìcere, condùrre for condúcere): in this case the future and conditional are formed from this contracted infinitive (farò, dirèi, condurrèbbe), while the present participle, the imperfect indicative and subjunctive, and certain persons of the present and preterite are formed from the uncontracted stem (facèndo, dicèva, conducíamo).

66. Pórre (for pónere), "to put," a verb of the third conjugation, will serve to show which are the regular and which the irregular parts of irregular verbs: the forms printed in italics are regular in all verbs except dàre, dìre, èssere, fàre, stàre; those in Roman type may be irregular.

It will be seen that the present participle, the imperfect indicative and subjunctive, and certain persons of the present and preterite indicative are always regular.

(1) Dáre and stáre have in the future and conditional darò, darêi; starò, starêi. Otherwise the only irregularity in the future and conditional is that they are contracted in many verbs even when the infinitive is uncontracted: as vedére, "to see," vedrò; venire, "to come," verrêi.

(2) From the first person singular of the preterite the other irregular persons can be constructed, the third person singular by changing the ending i to e, the third person plural by adding -ro to the third person singular.†

(3) The regular persons of the preterite and the whole imperfect subjunctive are slightly irregular in dáre and stáre, which substitute e for a in those forms (désti, démmo, déste, déssi; stésti, stémmo, stéste, stéssi).

(4) Díre (for dícere) and fáre (for fácere) have díte and fáte in the second person plural of the present indicative.

a. Verbs whose stem ends in l, n, or r often drop final e or i in the singular of the present indicative and imperative: as non vuol andáre, "he will not go"; viên qui, "come here." See also 63, a, b, c.

* See 66, 3.

† This rule applies only to irregular preterites.

b. The three forms of the imperative are exactly like the corresponding persons of the present indicative, except in avère, sapère, and volère, where they follow the subjunctive (abbbi, abbiamo, abbiate; sappi, sappiamo, sappiate; vogli, vogliamo, vogliate), and in andàre, dàre, dìre, fàre, and stàre, which have in the singular va', da', dì', fa', sta'.

c. The third person plural of the present indicative can always be constructed from the first person singular, from which can be formed also the whole present subjunctive except the first and second persons plural: these come from the first person plural of the present indicative. Exceptions to this rule are andàre, avère, dàre, fàre, sapère, and stàre, which have in the third person plural of the present indicative vanno, hanno, danno, fanno, sanno, stanno; while avère, dàre, sapère, and stàre have in the present subjunctive abbia, dia, sappia, sta.

67. With the aid of the above notes any verb except essere can be constructed from the infinitive, the participles (the present participle often being necessary to show the uncontracted form of the infinitive), the present indicative, and the first person singular of the preterite and future. A list of irregular verbs begins on page 88.

a. In general, compound verbs not differing in conjugation from their simple verbs will be omitted from this list. All compounds of dàre and fàre are accented on the same syllable as the simple verbs: as fa, "he does"; disfà, "he undoes."

The compounds of stàre demand special mention: ristàre, soprastàre, sottostàre, sovrastàre are inflected like stàre (ristà soprastàtetti, sottostàtano); distàre has no present participle, is regular in the present of all moods (disto, etc.), but otherwise is inflected like stàre (distètti, etc.); constàre, contrastàre, instàre, ostàre, prestàre, restàre, sostàre are regular throughout (cònstà, contràstano, instài, ostàrono, presterò, rèsti, sostàssi).

68. In old Italian and in poetry both regular and irregular verbs differ in many ways from the normal types: some of the commonest variations are given below.

a. In the first and third persons singular and the third person plural of the imperfect indicative v is often dropped, but never in the first conjugation: voléva = voléa (also volla); finivano = finiano. Some of these forms are not uncommon in modern prose.

b. The conditional endings -èi, -èbbe, -èbbero are generally replaced in poetry by -ta, -ta, -iano: crederèi = crederia.

c. The future endings -ò, -anno are sometimes replaced by -aggio or -abbo, -aggiono or -abbono: amerò = ameraggio; ameranno = amerabbono.

d. In the third person plural of the preterite -no or -ono is often dropped: amàrono = amàro or amàr (also amòrno, amónno). In the third person singular we find amào, credèo, sentìo.

e. Final -ero is often replaced by -ono: avrèbbero = avrèbbono.

f. In the first person plural final o is often dropped, and then the m sometimes becomes n: andiamo = andiam or andian.

g. In the first person plural of the present indicative -iamo may be replaced by -amo, -èmo, or -tmo, according to the conjugation.

h. Final -tano, wherever it occurs (also -éano in the imperfect), may be replaced by -leno or -ièno: avévano = avièno.

i. At the end of a word we often find e for i, sometimes i for e: pènsi = pènze; ascoltâte = ascoltati.

j. E is sometimes added to a word ending in an accented vowel: amò = amòe.

Have you ever observed what¹ happens when a pot of water boils at the fire? The steam of the water rises like so-much smoke, and remains attached to the lid that covers the pot ; when this steam has begun to cool, it becomes² water once-more,² and falls³ down again³ drop by drop. In-like-manner⁴ it happens with⁵ the vapors which the sun and the heat lift from the earth. The vapors rise, collect themselves on⁶ high in little bubbles, and thus united they form clouds.⁷ When these clouds are very-much⁸ charged with⁹ moisture, they resolve themselves into water ; and the water, falling⁸ down again⁸ in drops where the wind carries it, forms rain.⁷ So¹⁰ rain⁷ is-only¹¹ steam turned-back-into¹² water. MOODS AND TENSES.

69. The English present participle used as subject, predicate nominative, or direct object of a verb must be rendered in Italian by the infinitive, nearly always preceded by the definite article.

Ex.: Mi piace il viaggiare, I like travelling.

Rifarsiela cogli animali è da sciocchi, taking vengeance on animals is folly.

La nostra prima cura fu il cercare una pensione, our first care was hunting up a boarding-house.

Odio lo studiare, I hate studying.

70. The English present participle preceded by a preposition is translated as follows: (1) If the preposition is a necessary part of the thought, it is expressed in Italian, and the English present participle is rendered by the infinitive with the definite article. This article is, however, omitted (unless it would be used in English) after the prepositions di, "of"; dopo di, "after"; invece di, "instead of"; prima di, "before"; senza, "without."

Ex.: Óltre il fàre scarabocchi scrive male, besides making blots he writes badly.

Parldi contra il trarre útile di quella disgrazia, I spoke against utilizing that misfortune.

Il vizio di fumàre, the habit of smoking.

Ho l'abitudine di coricarmi tardi, I am in the habit of going to bed late.

Invece di dirmi tutto, instead of telling me everything.

Prima di morire, before dying.

Parliamo senza riflettere, we speak without thinking.

(2) If in English the omission of the preposition, although it made the construction awkward, would not essentially change the meaning, the phrase is rendered in Italian by the present participle without any preposition.

Ex.: Studiando si impara, (through) studying we learn.

Dovrei corrispondere alla sua cortesia ascoltandola, I ought to acknowledge her courtesy (by) listening to her.

Partendo incontrò un amico, (on) going away he met a friend.

Copiando non fa errori, (in) copying he makes no mistakes.

(3) "To amuse one's self by . . ." and "to weary one's self by . . ." are divertirsi a . . . and affannarsi a . . . with the infinitive: as si diverte a tirar sassi, "he amuses himself throwing stones." Some other verbs often take this construction.

71. Following are some other rules for the use of the infinitive and participles.

a. When any verb is used as an auxiliary, the mood and tense are expressed in that verb, and not in the dependent infinitive (see 57).

Ex.: Avrei potuto farlo, I could have done it.

b. After fàre, "to make" or "to have" (= "to cause"), sentire and udire, "to hear," and vedere "to see," the Italian present infinitive is used to render an English past participle. After lasciare, "to let," and often after the preposition da an Italian active infinitive is used to translate a passive one in English.

Ex.: Si fa capire, he makes himself understood.

Farò fare un paio di scarpe, I shall have a pair of shoes made.

L'ho sentito dire, I have heard it said.

Lo vide ammazzare, he saw him killed.

Si lascia ingannare, he lets himself be deceived.

Non c'è niente da fare, there is nothing to be done.

c. The Italian past participle is inflected like any other adjective. The present participle is invariable. When in English the present participle is used adjectively, without any verbal force whatsoever, it is translated, not by the participle, but by a verbal adjective, which can be formed from almost any Italian verb by changing the infinitive ending into -ante for the first conjugation, and into -ente for the others. This adjective may be used substantively. Some writers have used it as a participle.

Ex.: Questi vasi sono rotti, these vases are broken.

La donna sta cucendo, the woman is sewing.

Stavano parlando, they were speaking.

Un animale parlante, a speaking animal.

Acqua bollente, boiling water; due amanti, two lovers.

d. A whole protasis is often expressed in Italian by a present participle, or by an infinitive with a.

Ex.: Andandovi lo vedrebbe, if he went there, he would see it.

A bucarsi esce il sangue, if you prick yourself, blood comes.

e. Writers sometimes use, instead of a clause in indirect discourse, an infinitive followed by the word that would have been subject of the clause.

Ex.: Disse essere questo l'uomo che cercavamo, he said this was the man we were looking for.

72. In negative commands the infinitive is always used instead of the second person singular of the imperative.

Ex.: Trovalo, find it; non lo trovare, do not find it.

73. When an action is represented as having taken place and still continuing, the English uses the perfect or pluperfect tense, the Italian the present or imperfect.

Ex.: Studio l'italiano da otto mesi, I have studied Italian for eight months.

74. In subordinate clauses referring to the future and introduced by a conjunction of time, where the present is often used in English, the future tense must be employed in Italian.

Ex.: Quando vi andrò, glielo dirò, when I go there, I'll tell him.

a. The future is often used, without any idea of future time, to express probability.

Ex.: Sarà uscito, he has probably gone out.

Avrà molto denaro, he probably has a great deal of money.

75. The difference between the imperfect and the preterite is this: the preterite is used of an event that occurred at a definite date in the past, the imperfect is used in a description or in speaking of an accessory circumstance or an habitual action in past time—the preterite is a narrative, the imperfect a descriptive tense. The preterite perfect is used (instead of the pluperfect) only after conjunctions meaning “as soon as” (appena che, subito che, tosto che), and sometimes after dopo che, “after.”*

* It is used also in phrases like: in cinque minuti ebbe finita la lettera, “in five minutes he had the letter finished.”

Ex.: Entrò mentre dormivamo, he came in while we slept.

Faccio così ogni mattina, I did so every morning.

Lo fece l'anno scorso, he did it last year.

Tosto che l'ebbe visto, uscì, as soon as he had seen it, he went

a. In conversation the perfect is often used instead of the preterite, when the event is not remote.

Ex.: Vi sono andato ieri, I went there yesterday.

76. The conditional, like the English "should" and "would," has two uses: in indirect discourse after a principal verb in a past tense it expresses the tense which in direct discourse would be future;* in the conclusion of a conditional sentence it is used when the protasis is (or, if expressed, would be) in the imperfect subjunctive (see 77).

Ex.: Disse che lo farebbe, he said he would do it.

Se fosse vero lo credereì, if it were true, I should believe it.

Questa casa mi converrebbe, this house would suit me.

77. When a condition is contrary to fact, or consists of a more or less unlikely supposition referring to future time,† the protasis is in the imperfect (or pluperfect) subjunctive, the apodosis in the conditional;‡ otherwise both protasis and apodosis are in the indicative.

Ex.: Se l'avessi te lo darei, if I had it, I should give it thee.

Se fosse tornato l'avrei veduto, if he had returned, I should have seen him.

Se venisse noi ce ne andremmo, if he came, we should go.

Se vi andassi morirèi, if I should go there, I should die.

* The perfect of the future or the conditional is sometimes used where the simple tense would be expected: disse che non l'avrebbe fatto più, "he said he would do it no more."

† Rendered in English by the imperfect, or by the auxiliary "should."

‡ The imperfect indicative is occasionally used to replace the imperfect or pluperfect subjunctive of the protasis and the conditional of the apodosis.

Se non è véro è ben trováto, if it isn't true, it's a good invention.
Se lo fécce sarà púntto, if he did it, he will be punished.

a. The missing persons of the imperative are supplied from the present subjunctive. The imperfect subjunctive is used to express a wish that is not likely to be realized.

Ex.: Si accomodi, be seated (sing.); stiano zitti, be quiet (plur.).
Stia púre, be it so; vengano súbito, let them come at once.
Fosse púre, would it were so!

b. When a relative clause restricts its antecedent to one of all its possible conditions or actions, the verb of that relative clause is in the subjunctive, — the present subjunctive if the verb on which it depends be present or future, the imperfect if it be past or conditional.

Ex.: Non c'è animale più bellíno d'un gátto giovane che fáccia il chiásso, there is no animal prettier than a kitten that is at play.
Dóve troveréte un giovíne che spósi vói, where will you find a young man who will marry you?
Vorréti vedére un bel quádro che non fosse antico, I should like to see a fine picture that is not old.

c. The verb of a subordinate clause depending on an impersonal verb, on a superlative, or on one of the words "first," "last," and "only" is in the subjunctive. This rule does not apply to reflexive verbs, nor to affirmative phrases meaning "it is true" or "it is because."

Ex.: Bisognò ch'io vi andássi, I had to go there.
È giústo che stiano púntti, it's right they should be punished.
Il più bello ch'io cónosca, the finest that I know.
Si véde che non è cosí, you see it isn't so.
È véro che ci sòno státo, it's true that I've been there.

d. The subjunctive is used after all conjunctions meaning "although," "as if," "unless," "provided that," "in order that," "in such a way that" (denoting purpose), "before," "however," "whenever," "wherever," "without."

Ex.: Benchè stia nascosto, lo troverò, dovunque sia, although he be hidden, I shall find him, wherever he is.

Partirà a meno che egli non venga, I shall go unless he comes.

Lo fece perchè io venissi, he did it that I might come.

La divise in modo che le due parti fossero uguali, he divided it in such a way that the two parts should be equal.

Per quanto ricco egli sia, however rich he may be.

Aspetta finchè io torni, wait until I return.

e. The subjunctive is used after the indefinite pronouns qualche, qualunque, chiunque, checcchè, per quanto.

Ex.: Chiunque venga, whoever comes.

Qualunque disgrazia che succeda, whatever misfortune happens.

Per quante volte ci vada, however many times I go there.

f. The verb of an indirect question is nearly always in the subjunctive when it depends on a main verb either in a past tense or in the conditional.

Ex.: Domandano se il re è morto, they ask whether the king is dead.

Domandò se il padre fosse uscito, he asked whether his father was out.

g. In a clause dependent on a verb of saying the subjunctive is used if the main verb is negative, or interrogative, or in the conditional, or in a past tense. It is generally not used, however, after an affirmative verb in a past tense when the author himself wishes to imply that the indirect statement is true.

Ex.: Dice che la cosa è chiarissima, he says the thing is perfectly clear.

Non dico che questo sia vero, I don't say this is true.

Dissero che lo zio fosse ammalato, they said their uncle was ill.

Gli dissi che mi chiamava Enrico, I told him my name was Henry.

h. The subjunctive is used after verbs expressing causation, concession, desire, emotion, prevention, and uncertainty: i.e., after verbs of bringing about; granting, permitting; commanding, hoping, requesting, wishing; fearing, regretting, rejoicing; forbidding, hindering; being ignorant, denying, disbelieving, doubting, expecting, pretending, supposing, suspecting, thinking. But sperare, "to hope," very often does not take the subjunctive.

Ex.: Non so chi siano, I don't know who they are.

Vorrèi che non fosse accaduto, I wish it had not happened.

Supponiamo che sia provato, let us suppose that it is proved.

Spero che verrà, I hope he will come.

i. Se, "if," is occasionally omitted before an imperfect subjunctive; in this case the subject, if expressed, must follow the verb.

Ex.: Sarèi felice venisse egli, I should be happy, should he come.

La màmma di Alfrédo avéva lasciáto un anèllo d'òro sul cassettòne. Alfrédo vòlle¹ mètterselo in dito. Che giudizio! pretèndere che l' anèllo délla màmma pòssa² stàre in un ditino d' un fanciúllò! Se lo mise³ nel dito gròsso e pòi s' affacciò álla finèstra; l' anèllo cascò di sòtto, e non se ne sèppe⁴ più nùlla. La màmma cèrca l' anèllo, ma non c' èra più; cèrca di qui, di là, di sópra, cèrca per tútto, nè l' anèllo si può⁵ trovàre. EXERCISE 18.

We inhabit the earth ; but not all the earth has the same name everywhere : the earth is-divided¹ into five parts, and every part has its name. The five parts of the earth are-called¹ : Europe, Asia, Africa, America, Oceanica. Imagine you-cut-open² the earth in the middle and place³ it on a table, in-such-a-way⁴ that the inside shall-rest⁵ on the table, and the outside shall-present⁵ itself to your eyes. You will have two circles : in the circle that lies⁶ at your right are⁷ Europe, Asia, Africa, and a part of Oceanica ; in the circle that lies⁶ on-the⁸ left are⁷ America and the other part of Oceanica. But the ancients did⁹ not¹⁰ believe that the earth was round, nor did⁹ they know that its parts were five. They thought that the earth was flat and surrounded by the sea ; they knew, moreover,¹¹ only¹² three parts : Europe, Asia, Africa. They never¹³ would have dreamed that the earth was round, and that on¹⁴ the side opposite to the-one¹⁵ which they inhabited there¹⁶ was inhabited land. America was discovered 395 years ago by an Italian who was-called¹ Christopher Columbus. Christopher Columbus was-born¹⁷ in a village near Genoa in 1447. His parents were poor ; his father earned hardly enough-to¹⁴ support the family. However, by-dint¹⁸ of sacrifices they had¹⁹ him study ; and as²⁰ Christopher studied willingly, he grew up a fine²¹ boy. When it was time²² to-choose²³ a profession, he chose to-be-a²⁴ sailor. In⁸ those times they believed that the world ended after Africa ; but Columbus, on-the-contrary,²⁵ persuaded himself that the world ought²⁶ not¹⁰ to²⁶ end there, and that by continuing to sail, one¹ ought²⁶ to²⁶ turn and come-back to the same point.

The final vowel of anche, che, dove, neppure, and ove is generally elided before e or i.

a. Of the above conjunctions acciochè, affinché, a meno che non, ancorchè, avanti che, benchè, caso, come se, dato che, dovunque, eccetto che non, non ostante che, perchè meaning "in order that," per quanto, prima che, purchè, qualunque, quasi, sebbene, and senza che are followed by the subjunctive. For the use of che, "that," with the subjunctive, see 77, c, g, h. Come is occasionally used for come se, and then it takes the subjunctive. Finchè when referring to the future sometimes has the sense of finchè non, and then it generally takes the subjunctive. Se is followed by the subjunctive when it introduces an indirect question or statement dependent on a verb in a past tense, or a condition contrary to fact. Quando meaning "if" sometimes takes the subjunctive when se would not. For examples, see 77, c, d, f, g, h.

b. Che cannot be omitted in Italian as "that" is in English: * as disse che fosse vero, "he said it was true." Se can be omitted before an imperfect subjunctive: see 77, i.

¹ It is omitted, however, in the following peculiarly Italian construction: il ragazzo parèva fosse felice, "the boy seemed to be happy"; that is, between a verb of seeming and the subjunctive dependent on it, when in English the construction would be a verb of seeming with a dependent infinitive. It is occasionally omitted also after verbs of wishing, hoping, and fearing: as spéro mi scriva presto, "I hope you will write to me soon."

c. E and o are often written ed and od before a vowel.

Ex. : Mio pddre ed io, my father and I.

d. Between a verb of motion and an infinitive "and" is rendered by the preposition a.

Ex. : Andrò a cercarlo, I'll go and look for it.

e. When anche, "also" or "too," relates to a personal pronoun, the disjunctive form of that pronoun must follow anche, even if some form of the same pronoun has already been expressed.

Ex. : Andremo anche noi, we shall go too.

Parte anch' egli, he goes away too.

Trovi anche lui, I found him too.

Vennero anch' essi, they came too.

Lo or me lo diede anche a me, he gave it to me too.

Ti piace anche a te, you like it too.

When governing a personal pronoun cóntra, diétro, dópo, sénza, sópra, sótto, and often fra and vérso take di after them : as sénza di me, "without me"; fra di lóro, "among themselves." After con, in, per, a word beginning with s impure generally prefixes *i : as la stráda, "the street"; in istráda, "in the street."

a. "To" before the name of a country, after a verb of motion, is in.

Ex. : Andiámo in Fráncia, let us go to France.

b. "To" before an infinitive is rendered in Italian as follows :
 (1) After the verbs bastáre, "suffice"; bisognáre, "need"; con-ventre, "suit"; desideráre, "desire"; dovére, "must," "ought"; fáre, "make"; lasciáre, "let"; parére, "seem"; potére, "can," "be able"; sapére, "know"; sentire, "hear," "feel"; solére, "be accustomed"; udire, "hear"; vedére, "see"; and volére, "wish," "to" before a following infinitive is omitted. It is omitted also in exclamations and indirect questions consisting only of an interrogative and an infinitive.

* Cf. 58, a.

Ex.: Dovrèi capire, I ought to understand.

Bisogna pensarci, it is necessary to look out for it.

Potrèmo venire, we shall be able to come.

Vorrèi sapere, I should like to know.

Non sa che fare nè dove avvolgersi, he doesn't know what to do nor where to turn.

(2) After verbs of accustoming, attaining, beginning, compelling, continuing, hastening, helping, learning, preparing, teaching, and after verbs of motion, "to" before a following infinitive is a.

Ex.: Andranno a vederla, they will go to see her.

Si affrettò a rispondere, he hastened to reply.

(3) After all other verbs it is di; but "to" denoting purpose or result is per, and "to" indicating duty or necessity is da.

Ex.: Gli dissi di scrivere, I told him to write.

Mi è grato di dirlo, I am happy to say so.

Legge per divertirsi, he reads to amuse himself.

È troppo basso per arrivarci, he's too short to reach it.

Ho qualcosa da fare, I have something to do.

c. "By" denoting the agent is da.

Ex.: Fu fatto da lui, it was done by him.

d. "In" is in; but when expressing future time it is fra.

Ex.: Fra tre giorni sarà finito, in three days it will be finished.

e. "For" is per: as l'ha fatto per me, "he has done it for me." But in the sense of "since," in speaking of past time, "for" is da. "For," meaning "during," is omitted or translated durante. Sentences like "it is right for him to do it" must be translated by che with the subjunctive: è giusto che lo faccia.

Ex.: Dimora da molti anni a Firenze, he has lived for many years at Florence (see 73).

Resterò cinque settimane, I shall stay for five weeks.

Piovve durante un mese, it rained for a month.

Bisogna ch'io vada, it is necessary for me to go.

f. "From" is da; but before adverbs and sometimes after verbs of departing it is di. In speaking of time it is generally fin da.

Ex.: È lontano di qua, it is far from here.

Esco di casa, I go out of the house.

Fin dal principio, from the beginning.

g. Da has, in addition to the meanings "by," "from," "since," another sense hard to render in English: it may be translated "as," "characteristic of," "destined for," "such as to," or "suited to," according to the context. Da means also "at the house of" or "to the house of." Da corresponds to English "on" or "at" before the word "side," parte, used in its literal sense.

Ex.: Prometto da uomo d'onore, I promise as a man of honor.

Il Salvini da Otello, Salvini as Othello.

Sarèste tanto buono da venire, would you be so good as to come?

Questo è da sciocchi, this is acting like a fool.

Il bambino ha un giudizio da grande, the child has the judgment of a grown person.

La sala da pranzo, the dining-room.

Una tazza da caffè, a coffee-cup.

L'ho veduto dal Signor Neri, I saw him at Mr. Neri's.

Viene da me, he comes to my house.

Da questa parte, on this side.

h. A is often used before a noun—not indicating material (which is expressed by di) nor purpose (expressed by da)—that describes another noun, when in English these two substantives would form a compound word.

Ex.: Una macchina a vapore, a steam-engine.

Una sedia a dondolo, a rocking-chair.

Uno sgabello a tre piedi, a three-legged stool.

i. Essere per or stare per means "to be about to."

Ex.: Stava per parlare, he was on the point of speaking.

j. In some idiomatic phrases di is used in Italian when another preposition would be employed in English.

Ex. : Di giorno, di notte, by day, by night.

Essere contento di una cosa, to be satisfied with a thing.

Vivo di pane, I live on bread.

Che faceva delle forbici, what did he do with the scissors?

ADVERBS.

80. (1) Adverbs, unless they begin the clause, are generally placed immediately after the verb; non, however, always precedes the verb. When a compound tense is used, the adverb nearly always follows the past participle, but già, mai, and sempre usually precede it. See also 84.

Ex. : Non ci vado mai, I never go there.

Ho parlato spesso, I have often spoken.

Non ha sempre parlato così, he hasn't always talked so.

(2) Adverbs are compared like adjectives (see 31); but "better," "worse," "more," "less" are respectively méglio, péggio, più, méno.

81. "Yes" is sì or già: sì when it expresses real affirmation, già when it denotes passive assent. "No" is no. "Not" is non, after which a word beginning with s impure generally prefixes i. "Or not" at the end of a clause is o no.

Ex. : Le piace questo tempo? — Sì. — "Do you like this weather?"
"Yes."

Che tempaccio! — Già. — "What nasty weather!" "Yes."

Sta bene, he is well; non istà bene, he isn't well.

Sta véro o no, whether it be true or not.

a. "What?" meaning "what do you say?" is cóme? Che and the interjection o are often used to introduce questions.

Ex.: O perchè non rispondete? — Còme? — Che siete sordo, signore?
— "Why don't you answer?" "What?" "Are you deaf, sir?"

b. "Very" is mólto (see, however, 35, a). Instead of using a word or suffix for "very," the Italians often repeat the emphasized adjective or adverb.

Ex.: È mólto bello or è bellissimo, it is very beautiful.
I suoi genitori erano pòveri pòveri, his parents were very poor.

82. "Only" may be translated by soltánto or solaménte, or by the adjective sólo; and it is often rendered by non . . . che, with the whole verb intervening, and with the word modified by "only" immediately after che.

Ex.: Non ne ho compráto che due, I have bought only two of them.

83. "Never" is non . . . mái, with the inflected part of the verb intervening. "Just," as an adverb of time, is or óra. "Early" is prèsto, per tèmpo, or di buon' óra. "This morning" is stamáne; "last night" is stanòtte. "The day after to-morrow" and "the day before yesterday" are respectively domán l' áltro and ier l' áltro. "A week, a fortnight from to-day" are óggi a ótto, a quíndici. "Ago" is translated by fa, which follows the substantive of time; if this substantive is plural, "ago" may be rendered also by sóno (éranó or saránno if the date from which time is counted be past or future).

Ex.: Non ti ha mái vedúto, he has never seen thee.

Son arriváti or óra, they have just arrived.

Tre ánni fa, three years ago; quáttro giòrni sóno, four days ago,

Ex.: Lunedì erano due settimane, two weeks ago Monday.
Domani saranno cinque mesi, five months ago to-morrow.

84. "Here" and "there" when they denote a place already mentioned, and no particular stress is laid upon them, are ci and vi, which are often used in Italian when they would be superfluous in English; "there is," "there are," etc., are c'è or vi è, ci sono or vi sono, etc. (sometimes vi ha). Ci, vi, and also ne, "thence," occupy the same positions with regard to the verb, and undergo the same changes, as the pronouns ci, vi, ne (48, 50); they precede conjunctive pronouns beginning with l or n, and follow all others: ce lo manda, ti ci mando.

When emphasized, "here" is qui or qua, "there" indicating a place near the person addressed is costì or costà, and "there" denoting a point remote from both speaker and hearer is lì or là.

Ex.: Carlo vi è tornato, Charles has gone back there.

Alla scuola non ci vado, I don't go to school.

Voi rimarrête costà, egli resterà laggiù, ed io non partirò di qui, you will remain where you are, he will stay down there, and I shall not move from here.

a. "Here I am," "here it is," etc., are eccomi, eccolo, etc.

85. Most adverbs of manner are formed by adding -mente to the feminine singular of the corresponding adjective. Adjectives in -le and -re drop their final e in forming the adverb. See 35, a.

Ex.: Francò, frank; francamente, frankly.

Felice, happy; felicemente, happily.

Piacevole, pleasant; piacevolmente, pleasantly.

a. "So" meaning "it" is translated lo: as lo faccio, "I do so"; lo crede, "he thinks so"; lo dicono, "they say so."

EXERCISE 19.

Agostino ¹è un goloso di prima rìga. Còme¹ vedeva déi confètti, ùna chicca, dèlle frùtta, sùbito se le pigliava e mangiava senza permèsso, anche se non erano sue. ^{me}Infino i suoi compàgni ^{me}di scuòla le rimproveravano di quèsto viziaccio. La maèstra pensò di punire ^{me}Agostino. Un giòrno, quàndo fu l' òra dèlla ricreaziòne, tirò fuòri dalla súa cassètta de' confètti, e mettèndoli nel panière d' ^{me}Agostino, gli disse²: — Quèsti li porterai a càsa àlla túa sorellina. — ^{me}Agostino a vedèr que' confètti fèce³ cèrti occhióni gròssi còme quèlli d' un bòve. Non istava più in se⁴ dalla vòglia di mangiàre que' confètti. Èra tàoto goloso, che se aveva qual-còsa di sùo non dàva nùlla a nessùno; èra tàoto goloso, che aveva la sfacciataggine di mangiàre le còse dègli àltri; o figuratevi dúnque còme si struggèva di⁴ mangiàr que' confètti ch' erano nel suo panierino. Finìta la refeziòne, i bambìni vànno⁵ nel giardìno. Appèna ^{me}Agostino vedè⁶ che nèlla stànza dov' erano i panierini non c' era nessùno, sparisce dal giardìno, e via a pigliàre i confètti. Ma non ha⁷ finito di buttàr giù il primo, che¹ sentè⁸ un amàro, un sapóre così cattivo da non poter règgere; spùta⁹ e rispùta, ma l' amàro non se ne andava.⁵ Èra curiosò vedèr ^{me}Agostino disperàto per quel saporaccio. E i compàgni chi da un úscio, chi da un àlto, e chi dalla finèstra che dàva sul giardìno, stàvano a vedèrlo, ^{me}e a ridere di quèsta cèlia che la maèstra aveva fàtto⁶ a quel goloso. Allòra la maèstra gli disse²: — Vèdi, Agostino; ho fàtto⁶ fàre quèsti confètti pièni d' assènzio appòsta per te; vèdi a che còsa pòrta l' ingordìgia! Un àlto bambìno non ci sarèbbe rimàsto a⁷ quèsta cèlia. — ^{me}Agostino si accòrse⁸ che la signòra maèstra gli aveva fàtta⁶ quèsta cèlia per suo bène, e che se non si corregeva diventava lo zimbèllo di tùtti.⁹

EXERCISE 20.

It is related that in by-gone¹ times a parrot escaped from a villa. This parrot had learned to say all-the-time²: "Who's-there³? who's-there³?" Having-fled⁴ into a wood, it was flying from one tree to another without knowing where to go. A peasant, who by chance was hunting⁵ in that place, eyed the parrot, and having never seen any¹⁸ birds before⁶ of this sort, he was⁷ amazed at-it,⁸ and took⁹ all-possible¹⁰ care to aim straight with his gun, so-as-to shoot-it¹¹ and carry it to show off as a rare thing. But while the peasant was aiming, the parrot, seeing⁴ him, repeated his usual question: "Who's-there³? who's-there³?" The-peasant's-blood-froze-in-his-veins¹² at those words; and lowering⁴ his gun, and taking-his-hat-from-his-head¹³ he hastened to reply to him, dreadfully¹⁴ mortified: "Excuse-me,¹⁵ for-mercy's-sake,¹⁶ I took¹⁷ you for a bird!"

INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

86. "One," "people," "we," "you," "they," used in an indefinite sense, are rendered in Italian by the reflexive construction with si (see 55).

Ex.: Si canta bene in Italia, they sing well in Italy.

Si fa così, you do this way; se ne parla, people speak of it.

Si fanno spesso queste cose, one often does these things.

87. "All" as a substantive is tutto (tutti, etc.): as tacé-vano tutti, "all were silent." The adjective "all," "the whole" is tutto followed by the definite article: as tutta la terra, "the whole earth"; tutto il giorno, "all day"; tutte le române son belle, "all Roman ladies are beautiful."

88. "Any," when it really adds nothing to the sense, is omitted: as non ha libri, "he hasn't (any) books"; voléte vino, "do you want (any) wine?" When, however, this redundant "any" might be replaced by "any of the," it is translated by the partitive genitive (see 12, a): as voléte del vino, "do you want any (of the) wine?"

"Any" used substantively in the sense of "any of it," "any of them" is ne (see 47, 3): as non ne ho, "I haven't any"; non ne ha più, "he hasn't any more"; ne avéte, "have you any?"

"Any" used adjectively and meaning "any whatsoever" is qualúnque: as lo fa mēglío di qualúnque áltra persóna, "he does it better than any other person."

89. "Some," when it adds nothing to the sense, is omitted or rendered by the partitive genitive: as voléte búrrò or voléte del búrrò, "will you have some butter?"

"Some" meaning "some of it," "some of them" is ne: as ne ha, "he has some."

Otherwise "some" is alcúno or qualche. Qualche is always singular (even when the meaning is plural), and is never used substantively. Ex.: alcúne persóne or qualche persóna, "some persons"; alcúni lo dícono, "some say so."

90. "Some . . . others," "the one . . . the other," "one . . . another" are translated by chi . . . chi, áltri . . . áltri, l' úno . . . l' áltro, or alcúni . . . alcúni.

Alcuni used in this way is always plural. A verb whose subject is chi or altri (used in this sense) is always singular; altri is not used after prepositions. But l' uno and l' altro can be used in any case or number.

Ex.: Tutti, chi più tosto, e chi meno, morivano, all died, some sooner, some later.

Altri cade, altri fugge, some fall, others flee.

Gli uni son buoni, gli altri cattivi, some are good, others bad.

LIST OF IRREGULAR VERBS ARRANGED ACCORDING TO CONJUGATION.*

92. This list contains no compound verbs except those which differ in conjugation from their simple verbs and those for which no simple verb exists in Italian. With every verb its irregular forms are given: in the same line with the infinitive are the present participle (if it be needed to show the original form of the infinitive), the first person singular of the preterite indicative, the past participle, and the first person singular of the future indicative (if the future be contracted); immediately below are the present indicative, the imperative, and the present subjunctive, if these parts be peculiar. For dare and stare the whole preterite and the first person singular of the imperfect subjunctive are given also. Essere is irregular throughout. All tenses not mentioned are regular. Note the following rules:—

a. If the present participle is given, the following forms, unless expressly mentioned, are to be constructed from its stem: all present and preterite forms with accented endings, and the whole imperfect indicative and subjunctive. If the present participle is not given, these forms, unless they be mentioned, are to be constructed from the stem of the infinitive.

b. Preterites in -ái, -éi, -li, and -ètti (except dètti and stètti) are regular throughout. In all other preterites the third person singular can be formed from the first person by changing final i to e, and the third person plural by adding -ro to the third person singular.

* Reference to these tables is facilitated by an Alphabetical List of Irregular and Defective Verbs (see page 101). Students are advised not to learn forms in parentheses nor any verbs or forms marked rare or poetical.

c. If the future is not given, it is to be constructed from the infinitive. The conditional always has the same stem as the future.

d. The imperative, when not given, is like the corresponding forms of the present indicative.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF IRREGULAR AND DEFECTIVE VERBS.

93. Every irregular verb in this list is followed by a number referring to the table of Irregular Verbs arranged according to Conjugation. Obsolete defective verbs that present no irregularity have not been mentioned.

a. Compound verbs have, in general, been excluded from this list, unless they differ in conjugation from the simple verbs from which they come (see 67, a). The commonest prefixes are: a- (corresponding in meaning to the preposition a); as- (= Latin abs-); co-, com-, con-, cor- (= prep. con); contra- (= prep. contra); de-, di- (= Lat. de-); dis- (= Lat. dis-); e-, es- (= Lat. ex); i-, im-, in-, ir- (= prep. in); o- (= Lat. ob); per- (= prep. per); pre- (= Lat. prae-); pro- (= Lat. pro-); r-, re-, ri- (= Lat. re-); s- (= Lat. ex- or dis-); so-, sos-, su- (= Lat. sub); sopra-, sopr-, sor- (= prep. sopra); sott-, sotto- (= prep. sotto); stra- (= Lat. extra); tra- (= prep. tra). After several of these prefixes the initial consonant of the simple verb is generally found doubled: a + cadere = accadere. S- is sometimes combined with con-, r- with a- or in-: scoscendere, raccogliere, rincorrere.

APPENDIX.

ADDITIONAL NOTES ON PRONUNCIATION.

[The numbers prefixed to the following notes refer to the paragraphs of the first chapter in this book.]

1. The Tuscan names of the letters are : a, bi, ci, di, é, éffe, gi, ácca, i, jé or i lúngo, élle, émmé, énné, ó, pi, cu, érre, ésse, ti, u, vu or vi, zétu (with z pronounced dz). They do not change in the plural. Their gender is not fixed ; in general those ending in a or e are considered as feminine, the others as masculine. K, x, y are cáppa, iccase, ípsilon, all masculine.

2. a. The sounds á, é, ó, followed by a single consonant, are somewhat longer than the other vowels : for instance, in dáto, féro, óvo the accented a, e, o are longer than in dáttero, véro, óve. Final accented vowels sound particularly short : as in amò, beltà, caffè.

β. In forming i the mouth should be made as broad as possible from side to side. For u and ó the lips should be puckered. For a and é the mouth should be opened very wide.

3. a. If an adverb in -mente is formed from an adjective containing é or ó, this vowel has, in the adverb, a secondary accent, and retains its open sound : as (brève) brèveménte, "briefly"; (nobile) nóbilménte, "nobly." Furthermore, é and ó retain their quality in seeming compounds that consist, in reality, of two or more separate words : as tostochè = tòstoché = tòsto che, "as soon as."

β. Preterites and past participles in -esi, -eso, -osi, -oso have a close e or o ; except chiési (also chiési), esplósi, esplóso, lési (not used), lèso.

γ. In the suffixes -eccio (-a), -esco (-a), -ese, -essa, -etto (-a), -ezzo (-a), -mente, and -mento the e is always close; while in the diminutive suffix -ello (-a), and in the endings -ente, -enza, -erio (or -ero), and -esimo (-a) it is open: as inglese, "English"; probabilmente, "probably"; prudente, "prudent"; ventesimo, "twentieth."

δ. In the endings -oio, -one, -ore, and in the suffix -oso (-a) the o is close; while in the ending -orio, and in -occio (-a), -otto (-a), and -ozzo (-a), used as suffixes to nouns or adjectives, it is open: as vassòio, "tray"; amòre, "love"; romitòrio, "hermitage"; casòtta, "good-sized house."

ε. In the following cases accented e or o may have either the close or the open sound: in Giorgio, maestra, maestro, nego (from negàre), neve, organo, scendere, senza, siete and sono (from èssere), spegnere, Stefano, vendere; and in the conditional endings -esti, -emmo, -este. The present subjunctive forms dieno, sieno, stieno are pronounced also dièno, sièno, stièno.

ζ. In poetry we often find è for iè, ò for uò: as ven = viène, "he comes"; cor = cuòre, "heart."

4. C. α. Between two vowels, of which the second is e or i, single c and single g are, in ordinary Tuscan speech, pronounced respectively like sh in "ship" and si in "vision": as páce, "peace"; stagiónè, "season."

β. Between two vowels, of which the second is a, o, or u, a single c is, in popular Tuscan speech, sounded nearly like English h: as poco (pòho), "little"; di questa cosa (di hwèsta hòsa), "of this thing." This pronunciation is regarded as vulgar.

J. Some writers use j, except after a consonant, for the i that is pronounced y: as jeri for ièri, "yesterday"; pajo for pàio, "pair." It is sometimes used also for final i in the plural of words in unaccented -io: as specchj (also specchi and occasionally specchiù) for spècchi, "mirrors," plural of spècchio.

Z. Aside from verbs in -izzare, z and zz have the value dz in the following words and their derivatives: —

arzfïlo	frizzo	magazzïno	románzo	zêlo
azzúrro	garzône	mánzo	ronzïo	zenft
barzellétta	gazzèlla	mêzzo	rózzo	zêro
bizza	gazzétta	orizzónte	zaffïro	zêta
brézza	gónzo	ðrzo	zaffrône	zínco
brónzo	Lázzaro	pênzolo	zanzára	zodiáco
donzèlla	lazzaréttó	pránzo	zèbra	zòlla
dozzina	lázzo	ribrézzo	zèffïro	zòna

also in all derivatives of the Greek zoos, and in many uncommon words.

5. In pronouncing gli and gn the point of the tongue should remain behind the lower teeth : as figlio, "son"; ogni, "every."

6. If one of the words mentioned below, or any oxytone ending in a vowel, is closely followed by a word beginning with a consonant, this consonant is, in Tuscany, generally pronounced double. The words are : *— a	dì, day	giù	o §	sópra

che	di', say	ha	più	sta †
chi	e	ho	qua	sto
ciò	è	ínfra	qualche	su
cóme	fa †	íntra	qui	te †
cóntra	fè, faith	là	re	tra
da	fe' = fêce	lì	sa	tre
dà, gives	fo	ma	se, if	tu
da', give	fra	me ‡	sè	va †
do	fu	mo' = mōdo	sì	vo = vādo
dóve	già	nè	so	vo' = vōglio

Ex. : verrà da me domani (verràddammèddomàni), "he will come to my house to-morrow." In such cases c is, of course, never pronounced like h (see 4, C, β).

* The materials for this list were taken from D' Ovidio's article in Gröber's Grundriss der romanischen Philologie, p. 496.

† Both the imperative sing. and the pres. ind. third sing.

‡ The disjunctive form.

§ Both the conjunction "or" and the interrogative particle.

INFLECTIONS OF THE VOICE.

1. Italian speech is at once smoother and less monotonous than American: it is less interrupted by breathings, and it has far greater variations of pitch. In order to speak or read Italian well, an American must learn to breathe in speaking as he does in singing; he must inhale deeply at the beginning of the clause, and not stop again until he reaches the end of it. The following directions may be of use; they are based on the Tuscan pronunciation, and particularly on that of Siena.

2. a. The simplest inflection in a declarative sentence is as follows: at the beginning the voice is pitched low; it rises in the middle (in earnest conversation often to a falsetto), and falls again at the end. The most emphatic word generally receives the highest tone; if there are no words after it to complete the cadence, the first words of the phrase are often repeated at the end: as me lo dicono tutti me lo dicono ("they all tell me so"), where the u of tutti is an octave higher than the beginning and the close of the sentence.

β. When there is a pause on some not particularly emphatic word before the main verb, that word has a slight circumflex accent, the voice rising about one semitone and falling about three: as *fudri di città ^ c'è una bellissima villa * ("outside the city there's a beautiful villa"), where bellissima has the high pitch, and the a of città has the circumflex. This accent is generally heard whenever modifying clauses or phrases precede the main clause.

γ. Almost all declarative sentences are made up chiefly of these two inflections, the long rise and fall and the short circumflex. Americans must avoid breaking up their sentences by meaningless falling tones. The fall occurs in Italian, as in English, on a very emphatic word, and at the end of a sentence. It is used, also, with a verb of saying or thinking, followed by a direct quotation; and with any word or phrase used as a vocative, except in loud calling (see 4, β): as allóra chiàma Alfrédo e gli dñce \ : Bambino \ , dìmmi la verità \ (Grammar, Exercise 17), where the syllables fre, bam, and dim have the highest pitch.

3. α . Questions to which the answer may be "yes" or "no" have either one of two circumflex accents: in the first the voice rises about five semitones and falls one; in the second, which is sometimes used in reading and in polite phrases, the voice rises and falls about an octave. Ex.: l' hái visto ("have you seen him?"), where the pitches of l' hái, vi, and sto may be represented by the notes do, fa, mi; ha bèn dormito ("did you sleep well?"), where mi is an octave higher than do and to. The former accent may be heard in the Irish pronunciation of English.

β . These inflections are nearly always confined to the last few syllables of the sentence. In some questions, however, they appear twice, generally occurring first on the verb; and occasionally the circumflex on the verb is the only one.

γ . Questions that cannot be answered by "yes" or "no" usually begin high, the pitch depending on the emphasis. The voice then falls, but generally rises again at the last syllable, going up about three semitones: as o cóme \ hái fátto / ("how did you do it?"). This accent is common among the Irish, and may be heard in England. The final rise is, however, often omitted, especially in very short sentences and in polite phrases: as cóme sta \ ("how do you do?").

4. α . Exclamations of surprise begin very high, and sink rapidly: as sènti \ ("no!"*) ; un affàr di niènte \ ("you don't say so!"*), where un has the main stress; per mio bácco ("I want to know!"*), with the accent on per.

β . In calling to persons at a distance, the Tuscans sing rather than speak; the usual tune is do, la, sol, the accented syllable being highest: as Agostina ("Augustine!"); partènza ("all aboard!").

* Popular New England equivalents.
